Mrs. Sweetin Has Confessed

Admits That She Poisoned Her Husband "Because of the Great Love" She and Hight Bore for One Another.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Mt. Vernon, Ill., Sept. 23.—Mrs. Elsie Sweetin, comely 32 years old widow, today confessed she administered arsenic to her husband, Wilford, July 26, in accordance with a poison plot hatched by her and the Rev. Lawrence M. Hight to remove the two human obstacles to their marriage.

The break which brought the confession came after Mrs. Sweetin had spent nearly an hour in the cell where Hight is confined while authorities unsolved spied on the couple. An all night's grilling during which she was confronted with the clergyman's latest confession—that he had poisoned his wife, and Mrs. Sweetin had poisoned her husband—preceded her confession.

The killings were arranged and executed because of the great love they bore for each other, Mrs. Sweetin declared.

She said she administered the poison obtained for her by the jockey-preacher three times before it proved effective.

No sooner had word of the latest confession, the fourth which has featured this case, spread through the town than the mob which gathered through the night gathered in little knots about the jail here began to augment. Additional deputies were sworn in as Sheriff Holcomb could round them up and all possible precautions to prevent mob violence were taken.

Around the jail, an air of tension, which pervaded even to cells of the prisoners prevailed and Hight, fearful since his first confession, covered in his cell. At all sounds, he called to his jailer to learn their meaning. The terror of a violent death was in his eyes.

SMITH WILL HEAD DEMOCRATIC TICKET
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Syracuse, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Democratic leaders of the state will begin here tonight the series of conferences which is expected to result in the nomination of Governor Alfred E. Smith and the entire state ticket.

It was predicted here today that the governor will announce shortly before the opening of the convention Thursday that he is willing to run.

The announcement will be followed by his nomination on the first ballot.

The governor is expected to arrive this afternoon with National Committee member Norman E. Mack of Buffalo and members of his cabinet.

George W. Olvany, head of Tammany Hall, and other New York leaders are planning to arrive about the same time and the pre-convention conferences will be in full swing to-night.

The tentative draft of the platform which is being prepared by State Senator James J. Walker and other leaders of the party in New York, will be approved at the committee meeting and the personnel of the various committees will be agreed upon.

The first session of the convention will be open at the Arena at Thursday noon by Francis E. Cullen of Oswego and Watertown, temporary chairman.

A permanent chairman will then be named and the various committees appointed.

The conference will then adjourn, probably until Thursday night. Later details of the program will be decided upon by the delegates at the first session.

WOMEN ACTIVE IN NEW JERSEY POLITICS
By Telegram to The Freeman.
Trenton, N. J., Sept. 23.—Women of New Jersey were playing an important part today in the primary elections.

Mrs. Mary T. Norton was unopposed for the Democratic nomination for congress in the twelfth district. Her district is overwhelmingly Democratic, and her nomination is equivalent to election, party leaders assert.

Should she be elected, she would be the first woman member in Congress from a state east of the Mississippi.

Hold Brown For Grand Jury

Howard Brown of West Saugerties, the driver of the Cadillac automobile which crashed into the fence at West Hurley early Sunday morning, was arrested Monday afternoon by Sergeant Cunningham and Trooper Coons. He was brought back to the county jail, where he later furnished the necessary $1,000 bail.

Mob Seeks to Lynch a Negro

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Hester, S. C., Sept. 23.—Several officers, heavily armed today were rushing by automobile to Columbia with a negro prisoner in an attempt to evade a mob which has been hot on the trail since the arrest last night. The negro, who is unidentified, is charged with attacking a young white woman.

Shortly after word of the attack spread, a large mob formed and instituted a search. Later officers arrested a suspect, placed him in jail and then early today started for Columbia in an attempt to place him in the state prison for safe keeping.

After attacking the girl, her assailant jammed her unconscious form in a culvert, apparently thinking she was dead. Her head was severely injured from blows of a rock which was found near. She is expected to recover.

"WHITE RUSSIANS" SELL SERVICES TO CHINESE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Shanghai, Sept. 23.—Six hundred "White Russians," refugees from Vladivostok at the time the Reds took possession of the Siberian city, now are among the Kiangsu troops at Quinsan, north of Shanghai on the Grand Canal, assisting General Chi Hsieh-Yuan in the attack on Shanghai as mercenary troops, according to advices received here today.

The Russians have been detained at Woosung, Shanghai's outer port at the mouth of the Yangtze River, for more than a year on vessels of Admiral Stark's "portless fleet." Being penniless they offered themselves as mercenary troops to the Kiangsu troops.

Large stores of arms and ammunition they had on board their vessels were sold to both General Chi of Kiangsu and General Lu of Chekiang, the contending Tachans, a year ago.

The troops defending Shanghai have also been strengthened by bringing up of more than 1,000 fresh troops from reserves in Chekiang. Absence of any determined fighting has left the Chekiang lines outside of Shanghai unchanged.

Corwin, secretary of the New York State Federation of Rural Letter Carriers, was advised over the week-end that rural letter carriers who serve their routes with touring and runabout automobiles need not take out a chauffeur license. ## Machold Out; Roosevelt Leads

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, will be nominated for governor by the Republican state convention on the second or third ballot, leaders declared early today, following a conference which lasted a greater part of the night.

Decision of the leaders to nominate Roosevelt followed quickly on the heels of an announcement by Speaker H. Edmund Machold of Watertown that he would not permit his name to go before the convention.

Machold's withdrawal came as a distinct surprise to his followers. While they realized from the first moment the leaders started gathering here for the convention that it would be a fight between Colonel Roosevelt and Speaker Machold, they felt their candidate would emerge victorious.

The leaders admitted today that while they believed Machold would make a "good governor" they were virtually forced to select Roosevelt because of his ability to campaign. They feel, they said, that in Roosevelt they will have a candidate who will measure up with Governor Al Smith as a campaigner and a vote getter.

Up to a week ago when it became virtually certain that Governor Smith would accept a renomination at the hands of the Democratic state convention, meeting in Syracuse later this week, a majority of the Republican leaders had confidently expected Machold would be nominated. George K. Morris of Amsterdam, Republican state chairman, had insisted for several weeks that Machold would be nominated on either the first or second ballot. Today Morris was reported to be standing in Roosevelt's corner.

The leaders are still insisting the convention will be "wide open" and that every candidate will have an equal opportunity. For this reason, it was said, no efforts will be made to prevent any of the other candidates such as Colonel William Haywood of New York, Supreme Court Justice Arthur S. Tompkins of Nyack and District Attorney Gu. J. Moore of Erie, from making a fight on the floor of the convention.

Supporters of Hayward, Tompkins and Moore, while admitting today that it "looked like Roosevelt," insisted that the respective candidate still had a chance to win the nomination. They made light of the opinion expressed by Roosevelt's supporters that the assistant secretary of the navy will be able to hold his own in a give and take battle with Governor Smith.

United States Senator James W. Wadsworth, Jr., some of the leaders said today, is the man responsible for the selection of Colonel Roosevelt. Up to the time it became practically certain that Governor Smith would be renominated, Senator Wadsworth had told friends he believed either Machold or Roosevelt would be acceptable to the rank and file of the Republican party. Events came thick and fast, however, after Roosevelt Wadsworth at the latter's home at Genesee.

Supporters of Colonel Roosevelt insisted today that his nomination would be very acceptable at the White House in Washington. When Senator Wadsworth was asked today if he believed the nomination of Roosevelt would meet with the approval of President Coolidge, he replied: "I should think it would. Colonel Roosevelt is part of the administration."

The convention will get underway at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning in Convention Hall. After Former State Senator Nathaniel A. Elsborg of New York, has given his address as both temporary and permanent chairman committees will be appointed and adjournment taken until Thursday at 11 o'clock. Present plans call for the nomination of Colonel Roosevelt Thursday morning and then an adjournment of an hour or two when the leaders will decide on the make-up of the rest of the ticket.

Erie county will be given a place on the ticket, leaders said today. They would like to see Former State Senator Parton B. Swift of Buffalo as a candidate for attorney-general, but if he desires he can have the nomination for lieutenant-governor.

There is also talk of State Senator Seymour Lowman of Elmira for lieutenant-governor. Lowman is an out and out "dry" and some of the leaders believe he would be a good running mate for Roosevelt.

The nomination for secretary of state is said to rest between Former Secretary of State John J. Lyons of New York and Charles W. Taft of Oneida. The latter was a deputy when Lyons was secretary.

BRIDGES BLOWN UP IN WAR IN CHINA

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Shanghai, Sept. 23.—(ten p. m.)—Twenty bridges between Kashing and Hang Chow have been blown up to prevent troop movements. The Lung-wa arsenal, supplying the Chekiang forces with munitions, is working only part time, as a result of an outbreak of labor trouble. All fronts were silent today save for occasional artillery exchanges.

Court Opens and Closes.
County court convened this morning at 10 o'clock without a jury. An adjournment was taken until Monday, September 29, at 10 o'clock.

Less Than Half Have Applied For Licenses

Only 8,031 Motor Vehicle Licenses Issued Up to Noon—State Estimates 28,000 Will be Issued in County—County's Estimate is 20,000—Delinquents Liable to Arrest Beginning Wednesday, October 1.

Up to noon today, only 8,031 motor vehicle licenses had been issued at the Ulster county clerk's office out of a possible 28,000 which the motor vehicle bureau of the state tax department estimates will be issued for Ulster county, or 20,000 which is estimated at the county clerk's office will be required.

Driving a car without a license on and after Wednesday, October first, will subject the driver of a motor vehicle to a fine, and it is the intention of all officials to enforce the law strictly. Therefore, unless there is a rapid increase in the number of applicants within the next few days, the work at the county clerk's office will be so blocked during the last few days of the month that it will be impossible to issue licenses as fast as applications are received and the applications can be examined and checked up.

For the purpose of expediting the work, County Clerk John H. Saxe will keep the office open on Saturday afternoon, and the office force will continue to work nights in order to dispose of the applications received by mail, but even with this extra time devoted to the work it is likely there will be an overwhelming rush during the last few days which will result in delay, unless motorists make applications now.

At present there is a delay in issuing permits for examinations to applicants for chauffeur's license because the supply of such permits furnished by the motor vehicle bureau at Albany was insufficient. County Clerk Saxe has written and telegraphed to the bureau, but more than fifty applications are pending because of the shortage of the blanks furnished by the state.

The number of chauffeur's licenses issued up to noon was 159. An examination of a number of applicants was held at the armory during the day, but there are still many chauffeurs who have neglected to make the applications for a license.

In one case which occurred before noon, a chauffeur had traveled from Ellenville expecting to take his examination and get his license, but on account of the failure of the Albany officials to furnish the county clerk's office with sufficient permits, another trip to Kingston will be necessary.

It behooves the driver of a motor vehicle to get busy and make application for his license now.

MEANS DRAGGED INTO LIMELIGHT ONCE MORE

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Washington, Sept. 23.—Gaston B. Means, the elusive and contradictory star witness in the Daugherty investigation, again ran afoul of the courts here today.

Galen Tait, collector of internal revenue, for the district of Baltimore, filed a lien in district supreme court against Means's residence at 903 Sixteenth street here, in the sum of $267,614.40—this representing what Means is alleged to owe the government for income taxes during the past three years.

The exact amount of Means's income tax owed the government over this period is $214,000.52, according to the government's complaint and to this amount has been added more than $50,000 interest and penalties. Means, who jumped into the limelight on Sunday with a quasi repudiation of the Daugherty testimony he gave in the Daugherty hearing, was absent from Washington today. He is reported to have left the capital last midnight for an unannounced destination.

His work was not limited to the activities of the Hebrew School for at the Synagogue Agudas Achim, he conducted weekly lectures, which were greatly appreciated by the Jewish people. ## Chief Chipp to Retire Nov. 1

Files Resignation With President Charles Lahl, of Board of Fire Commissioners — Deputy Fire Chief Murphy to be Acting Chief.

Fire Chief Rodney A. Chipp, of the Kingston Fire Department, has filed his resignation, effective November 1, with President Charles Lahl, of the board of fire commissioners. Chief Chipp is retiring from active service owing to physical inability, and with his resignation he has also filed a doctor's certificate to that effect.

For several years Chief Chipp has been a sufferer from rheumatism and that fact led him to decide that for the best interests of the fire department it would be better if he should retire at this time on a pension.

Chief Chipp is one of the best known fire fighters in New York state and has always been active in fireman's matters. He served as chief of the fire department when it was strictly a volunteer organization. Under the first Crane administration a partially paid fire department was organized and Chief Chipp became its first chief.

Under his administration the fire department has become one of the most efficient of its size of any department in the state.

The board of fire commissioners will shortly hold a meeting to act upon the chief's resignation. At that time it is expected that it will be accepted and that Deputy Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy will be appointed acting chief of the fire department.

St. Remy Tragedy Investigation

John Doe Proceeding Under Way to Gather Facts Relating to Killing of Three Persons in Automobile Collision Last Month.

A John Doe proceeding before Coroner W. N. Conner was commenced this morning at the court house to inquire into the accident which took place on the evening of August 29, at St. Remy, when three men were killed by a collision between a Paige car and a Cadillac car. The two cars were being driven at an excessive rate of speed in the direction of Kingston. The Paige car, which was in the lead, was occupied by Mortimer M. Burger, Walter Kaufman and Dr. Wolf, all of New York city, and who died as a result of the accident. Benjamin Burnett of Brooklyn, who was the fourth person in the Paige, escaped with slight injuries and after spending a few days in the Kingston City Hospital, was discharged.

Philip Miller of Brooklyn, driver of the Cadillac car which attempted to pass the Paige, and William Mucken of New York, who was with Miller, were injured and taken to the Benedictine Hospital.

From the facts which could be gathered by the authorities at the time, the two cars were traveling at a high rate of speed on a straight stretch of road near St. Remy. The Cadillac attempted to pass the Paige and struck a concrete culvert and the fence, throwing it over against the Paige, which was hurled into the field, killing three of the occupants.

At the inquest this morning Dr. Dudenhausen, who resides about a mile from the scene of the accident, was the first witness called. He testified that about 7 o'clock in the evening he was summoned to go to the scene of the accident. He found the Paige car in the field about 300 feet from the Cadillac. Burger was lying on the ground dead. The other members of the party had been taken away at the time.

He examined the cars and the scene of the accident. The fence along the road was broken for a distance of 20 feet and a portion of the concrete culvert coping weighing about 400 pounds had been torn loose and carried down the road by one of the cars, presumably the Cadillac, which was attempting to pass to the left of the Paige. The Paige was some eight or ten feet from a tree which as a portion of a fender was wrapped about the tree. On the fence were blue paint marks similar to the paint on the Cadillac car.

Dr. Dudenhausen testified that the accident took place near the Thompson farm house and that the road was straight for a distance of about 200 feet to the south of the scene of the accident in the direction from which the cars had come.

Dr. Stern, who was called to the hospital, testified that he found a man dying when he arrived at the hospital. He did not take notes or data as the patient was Dr. Norwood's. He did not know the man's name. He was in the early thirties with brown hair. His skull was fractured and he was otherwise seriously injured. The second person was a man with a scalp wound and abrasions who he knew left the hospital after three or four days.

Dr. Norwood, who was called to the Kingston City Hospital, was next called. He found one man dead upon arrival at the hospital. This was Wolf. Kaufman was in a dying condition in the emergency room when he arrived. Burnett was but slightly injured and left the hospital after a few days' treatment.

In answer to Assistant District Attorney Murray's question, Dr. Norwood said that he did not detect the odor of liquor on any of the men.

Leo V. Grogan, who was summoned to the scene of the accident to bring the injured to the city in his ambulance, testified that he answered the call about four minutes after it was received. He drove toward the accident and when about three-quarters of a mile from Edenville he met a Ford car in which one man seriously injured was being rushed to the hospital. He stopped and transferred the man to a stretcher and started an effort to rouse the man and learn how the accident happened but was not successful. This man was Kaufman, who later died.

After taking Kaufman to the hospital he returned to the scene of the accident and found Burger dead. He was given permission to move the body by the coroner and then assisted in getting traffic moving again. The Cadillac was on the left of the road near the roadway. The Paige was on the right some distance away in the field. Both cars were badly demolished. He testified that the road was straight for perhaps 300 feet toward Rifton, the direction from which the cars were coming.

He noticed the culvert on the left where the concrete coping was torn away and also noticed the fence on the left was broken. The concrete coping which was torn away and lay a distance from the culvert he testified would weigh about 300 pounds. He did not notice the odor of liquor. The Paige car was about 150 feet from the culvert.

Miller was held by the authorities after the accident.

J.O.U.A.M. Not to Rejoin The National Council

Vote of 283 to 123 Decided This Issue at State Convention Here—Officers to be Elected at Session This Afternoon.

By a vote of 283 to 123 the state convention of the Junior Order United American Mechanics at noon today decided against amalgamation with the National Council, from which it separated in 1910.

The vote was taken and the result announced just before the recess at noon. The matter had been under debate, to the exclusion of all other subjects, since it was taken up at three o'clock Monday afternoon. Monday afternoon's discussion lasted until six o'clock, when the convention adjourned for the day, and was resumed at the morning session which opened at nine o'clock.

The New York State Council, therefore, will remain separate and distinct, in no way connected with the National Council, but will continue to be affiliated with the state councils of Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Virginia.

The matter of amalgamation of the state councils of New York and the three other states mentioned has been gone into thoroughly during the past year by committees composed of representatives of each state council, and the recommendation of the New York State Council committee was against amalgamation.

The large amount of debate and discussion on this question relegated all other matters of importance to this afternoon's session, which was expected to be crowded with important business. Matters to be disposed of included the election of officers for the ensuing year and the selection of a place for holding next year's convention.

The reports of officers and committees, which had been taken up during the morning session, were continued Monday afternoon during the four hour session from two until six o'clock.

The report which received the greatest amount of attention and resulted in the longest debate was that relating to amalgamation of the New York State Council with the National Council, and the subject was not concluded when the convention adjourned late Monday afternoon.

As previously stated in The Freeman, the New York State Council dissolved relations with the National Council in 1910 on the question of representation in the National organization. Such representation is governed by the laws of the National Council which for several years has been anxious to have the New York State Council again become amalgamated with it. The objection to such amalgamation has been the question of representation, as the laws of the National Council relating to that subject have not been changed in the interim. The national Council has a membership of 225,000; the New York State Council numbers 40,000 members. Opponents of amalgamation claim the benefits resulting from amalgamation under the old representation are not proportionate to the additional cost, whether the latter is direct or indirect.

Between conventions, matters affecting the order are acted on by the state board of officers, composed of seven members, and the acts of such board, as embodied in its report, was taken up for discussion at the Monday session and the acts were approved.

Among the matters thus approved was the selection of Kingston as the convention city this year, which action was taken by the state board of officers early in May. It appeared from such report that a committee was appointed to visit Kingston to ascertain if proper convention arrangements could be made there. The sub-committee was informed that Kingston could not take care of a convention of four hundred delegates, as the state convention at that time was expected to be of that size. Charles DeWitt Council, No. 91, and Elmer E. Swart, a member of the local council, had given assurances, however, that proper housing arrangements would be made for a convention of even larger size, and upon such assurances the state board of officers had decided to bring the convention to Kingston.

Supplementing the written report in regard to the convention, it was stated that Charles DeWitt Council had been successful in providing for five hundred delegates in attendance and also for the wives of a large number of delegates who had accompanied their husbands.

State Camp Sites In the Catskills

Their Establishment by State Conservation Commission Appreciated—Editor Describes His Experience in the Adirondacks and Catskills.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Albany, Sept. 22.—Emphatic appreciation of the work that the conservation commission is doing in opening trails and laying out public camp sites in the forest preserve is expressed in a letter just received by the commission from Alfred Human, managing editor of Musical America, telling of his personal experiences while camping in the Adirondacks and Catskills. He writes:

"Will you allow a citizen of New York state to speak a word on the excellent work being done by the conservation commission throughout the mountains? For a number of years I have been visiting the Adirondacks, traversing a large number of the trails. This summer, during a walking trip, I took the occasion to explore some of the less known (to me) trails throughout the Catskill Mountains. To my surprise, I must confess, the conservation commission has done as excellent work in this territory as in the Adirondacks. Surely when the service of the commission in marking trails and building camps becomes better known, the wildest sections of the Catskills will become more widely traveled.

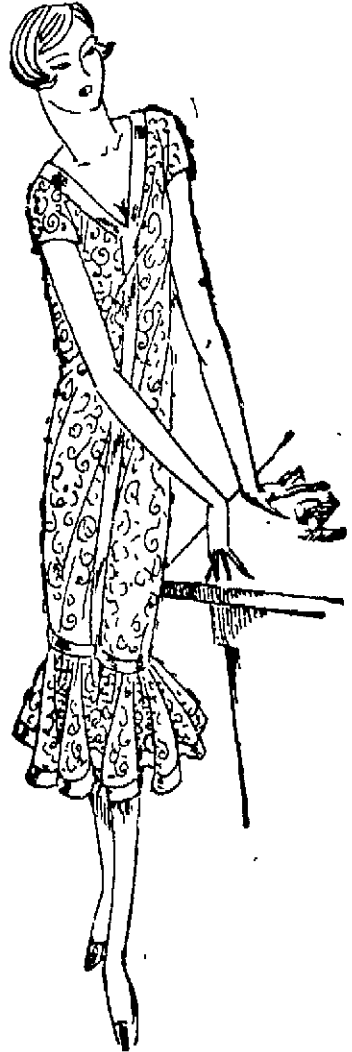

"We went over the entire section from Ellenville to Lake Awosting; then through Wawarsing to Grahamsville, Claryville, down the West Branch, over Winnisook Lodge to Slide, to Cornell and Wittenberg Mountains, through Phenicia to Big Indian, the Dry Brook section, Seager and Arkville. The trails are in fine condition, almost without exception, and the new camps are a joy. Above all, I would like to comment on the courteous and helpful spirit displayed by your rangers and observers through Ulster, Delaware and the other counties we visited. I was so delighted with the work of our commission that I cannot refrain from writing these lines in appreciation."

A STRING-COLORED LACE GOWN.

(By Eleanor Gunn.)

Making the world safe for democracy is one thing, and making it safe and interesting for royalty is another. Simple Americans have derived an awful "kick" from reading what the aristocracy wear. Even men, scornfully immune—to hear them talk—to fashion influences, are rather keen on what Wales wore morning, noon and night.

Here is a gown of royal sponsorship, made by Cheruit, of string-colored lace banded with satin to match and worn over a chiffon slip in the same neutral tone. In such ways is the straight line allowed to run its course, and after much restraint, pursue its circular way.

It has been noted that smart women are selecting both straight sheath and bouffant lines with a decided preference for the former. The straight line is sometimes interrupted below the knee, which is not far above the skirt hem just now, since skirts have become so much shorter.

Which brings to mind the foot-wear one needs, to be correct this winter. There are novelty slippers, of course, silver kids of last season, as well as the gilt ones, and some brocades which match the gown or give an interesting bit of color, but the newest dance slippers are to be of satin, with a special emphasis on what is called the blond shades, deepening to brown; and, of course, black, white, and flesh. Many of them are the plain opera pumps, although there are strap effects and many charming buckles.

Although in sports circles there has been some tendency to match the hosiery with the dominant note of the costume, light hose, of the flesh and banana types continue to be best liked for night wear.

When Canaries Molt

Canaries renew their feathers once a year. Adults molt late in the summer. Young birds molt the juvenile body plumage after leaving the nest, but keep the first growth of wing and tail feathers for a year. Canaries are somewhat dull and stupid while molting, and should be disturbed as little as possible.

Big dance Tuesday, Sept. 23, at White Eagle Hall. Music by Greco's Orchestra.—Advertisement.

I Am Clean

One reason for my beauty
By Edna Wallace Hopper

This is to the millions of women who wish to know how I have kept my youth and beauty after 35 years as a stage star. And how at a grandmother's age I manage to look like a girl.

Edna Wallace Hopper secured the same method.

One thing is this: I never use soap and water on my face. Soap removes just the surface dirt, and that has nothing to do with the skin.

Lucie Lantime, the famous Parisian beauty, told me how she kept her skin so absolutely clean. Then I went to her experts and she told me the same method.

Since then the method has come into world-wide use, but only through beauty experts. The results were so marvelous that all of them charged high prices for the product. Some charged $3, and some $5, for the formula, so only the few know how much it can do.

Now I am placing this formula at every woman's call. I have named it my Facial Youth. It contains no animal, no vegetable fats, so the skin cannot absorb it. It simply penetrates the pores to the depths, then departs. All the grime, all the dead skin and clogging matter come out with it.

Wash your face in the best way you know, then apply my Facial Youth. You will be amazed at the extra grime and clogging matter which comes out with it.

This is the first step in fine complexion—an absolutely clean skin. This method is the only way to get it. Once you know what it means you will never go without it.

I have placed this formula with all druggists, all toilet counters. The price is 75¢, despite the fact that others charge ten times as much.

You need my Facial Youth. It is impossible, they tell me, to look your best without it. It is the only facial cleanser which really cleans.

Write me for my Beauty Book and I'll send you it something else to please you. Edna Wallace Hopper, 533 Lake Shore Drive, Chicago.

The Modern Mother's Advice

MODERN mothers often appear less old-fashioned than their daughters. Let a married daughter complain, for instance, that her linens soil too quickly or her cotton garments look worn and covered with lint and the modern mother suggests starching with LINIT, the remarkable new laundry starch.

She knows, like thousands of up-to-date women, that LINIT is the kind of starch the great manufacturers use. It gives all wash garments and household fabrics that soft, pliable finish you admire in goods fresh from the store.

Linit makes cotton materials look and feel like linen. It freshens the appearance of linen—give it that beautiful, soft sheen like new. LINIT penetrates each thread and gives the whole material a uniform finish. And your fabrics stay clean and fresh much longer because LINIT eliminates lint.

Germany Wants To Join League

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Berlin, Sept. 23.—The German cabinet agreed unanimously this afternoon to declare itself in favor of the republic's entry into the League of Nations, provided the powers guarantee Germany admission with rights equal to the other big nations. President Ebert presided at the meeting.

An official communique points out the problems of the minority in the Saar territory and says disarmament can be settled satisfactorily only if Germany joins the league. The cabinet's resolution will be communicated to the league members, with a request for the equality guarantee upon which is predicted the decision to request entrance.

TO PLANT BLUE CRABS.

Conservation Commission Plants 100,000,000 in Long Island Waters.
At the request of applicants residing along the shores of Long Island, the Conservation Commission collected and distributed during the latter part of August about 300,000,000 of blue crab fry. This is the first time these crustaceans have been distributed by the Commission in ten years. The crabs have not been as yet plentiful in their accustomed haunts for several years and this led the Commission to take active steps in the planting of a supply of crab fry which it is hoped will make an appreciable difference in the take of this food and delicacy in seasons to come.

New Fall Models for Young Girls

Plaits, Braid, Buttons and Ribbon Are Used in Many Outfits.

The wardrobe of a schoolgirl, especially if she is going to boarding school, is a far more complex problem than it once was. Life there, says a fashion writer in the New York Times, is less simple, children are more sophisticated, and their style of dress has changed with the years and the seasons just as that of their elders has changed. More and more children are permitted to exercise their own taste, to express their individuality in dress. The simplicity which is the declared standard in fashions for children is, in the better things, an expensive luxury—also like that of the grown-ups. The uncomplex, straight-line types that have been in vogue for several seasons blur the line between the junior styles and those more mature and many of the frocks the smartly dressed child wears these days are built on very much the same plan as her mother's.

American girls have always known what they wanted, beginning with the wee ones—only in the past they have had less assurance in expressing themselves. Nowadays, however, the designers of exclusive frocks for children will say that quite as much thought, skill and diplomacy are required to please their young patrons as in gowning the leaders of fashion. Youth learns quickly. The youngsters absorb ideas. They have become quite the connoisseurs. From them one hears all about the "silhouette," color scheme, one-piece, ensemble and all the other terms that express the up-to-date costume—also, all that anyone else could know about the shingle, the Dutch cut, the boyish bob and all the other bobs.

No severer critics can be found than one's schoolmates. Comparisons may be ill-mannered, but they are felt. The girl who is correctly dressed, perhaps ultrasmart, is quickly an acknowledged person of distinction. Every woman knows that, quite apart from every other consideration, her small daughter must meet this situation.

Styles for children were never more attractive than the models show them to be this season. Reflecting the features of clothes for older women, the new things for girls between the ages of ten and sixteen are chic, artistic and lacking in the extremes that have already seen their day. It is now conventional to be conservative. The frocks and other things for girls which the modiste classifies as "juniors" are examples of uniformly good taste. The community at large follows the lead of the girl who is born to have "the best." Her modes are widely copied.

Kimono Pattern as Guide.

The kimono pattern, after which so many gowns are cut, continues to be the guide for informal frocks. It will be the foundation especially used for utility garments, as well as for others. Anything which so simplifies the making of frocks of many different kinds of material will not soon be given up. Of course, the ways in which this kimono shape may be treated, varied and disguised are numerous. Of itself, and in plain goods, it is a robe frock, a sport dress, a tunic or blouse, or any other sort of practical garment. No pattern less primitive offers such inducement for the most engaging styles of needlework—peasant embroidery, Russian cross stitch, French white work, braiding, applique—every form and phase of decorative elaboration now in vogue. With the kimono, one piece is a common mode. But there are many novel and diverging fashions to make the schoolgirl happy and proud and to give her mother reflected glory.

Long, tight sleeves and several other new styles are conspicuous in the models for fall for all practical frocks.

A New England Supper.
Ladies of Circle 2 of the Church of the Comforter will serve a New England supper at the church Wednesday night. The following menu will be served: Boiled ham, potatoes, baked beans, cabbage salad, tomatoes, jelly, rye bread, apple sauce and cake and coffee.

the schoolroom and street dress. Following the latest Parisian styles, they are shown also in many of the gowns of softer materials. With both the very long sleeve and the coat model white cuffs are worn, which match the eon or shallow round collar and give to a dark wool dress the daintiest and quaintest appearance. This type of sleeve on the plain one-piece frocks has brought into vogue a great variety of lovely collar-and-cuff sets that add to the freshness and life of the frock.

Next to the sleeve the most important innovation is the tunic blouse, which is much liked, particularly by the girl of tall, slim lines. This is a tremendously useful type of frock, for it makes possible several changes of tunic with one slip. Those done in needlework are an absolute fad among girls who are modishly dressed. The circular flounce, too, adds novelty to some of the latest models, and some charming frocks for little girls are done in this way—adorable things for dancing school.

Plaits is important. Some exceedingly smart frocks are shown with a straight one-piece tunic to the hip, lengthened with a fine-plaited flounce, which forms a smart, piquant skirt. This sort of thing is just what the girl needs who is adding to her inches rapidly, who is self-conscious and a bit gauche. In one new design plaited material is attached to a raglan yoke just below the shoulder and forms the frock, with a straight-length back and front, held in slightly with a narrow strap sash and tied in a bow, with long ends at each side.

One-Piece Frock Is Favorite.

In design the one-piece frock is the highest bidder for favor—a straight model, the line cut across just above the hip by stitching on the skirt, which may be straight and narrow, slightly on the bias, or plaited. The frock, with its unbroken line from collar to hem, is exceedingly smart. In the new models it is given a trim, almost military air by a touch of braid or a contrasting color and rows of buttons.

For example, this little tailored affair is presented by an American designer in Dutch blue kasha made in straight, unbelined lines, the sleeves tight-fitting and to the wrist. Down the front from collar to low waistline and at each side, outlining the top of a pocket and at right angles to the knee, is a strip of scarlet braid two inches wide with a row of dark pearl buttons sewn in the middle. With this practical, stylish dress for the girl of fourteen to sixteen are worn collar and cuffs of plain, unstiffened linen, finished in white needlework.

The sailor suit which became almost a uniform a few years ago has been superseded by other styles of much the same character, which serve the same occasions, but they have the additional virtue of being more interesting. In a dark-blue slipover twill corsage is made to the navy model, blouse and skirt all in one, with a large sailor collar and a touch of metal in the buttons that show on a tiny vest and on the long sleeves.

In Coat-Frock Lines.

One of the prettiest of the new models for little girls is a brown wool rep in coat-frock lines, straight and boxy, with a wide belt of the material stitched on, and finished with one end turned up and stitched in a point. Short pieces of scarlet and white braid are sewn at close spaces upward from the belt, and a tied strap and ends of the cloth finish one side under the arm. Large red buttons close the dress at one side, from belt to shoulder. Collar and cuffs of white cloth bordered with red are worn with it.

LIQUOR BUYERS WARNED.

The great numbers of Americans employing the services of bootleggers have doubtless in most cases assumed that, though it is illegal to sell, it is not illegal to buy. This impression has received a severe shock in Arkansas, where the Federal authorities have used the list surrendered by a convicted bootlegger as a basis for warrants for the arrest of his real or alleged customers, who are said to include prominent citizens and even high officials. These respectable and supposedly law-abiding persons are now charged with procuring, possessing and transporting forbidden liquors. And according to report this is only the beginning of a drastic Federal campaign against the customers of bootleggers in all the states.

If such persons can be brought to book in Arkansas and elsewhere, there is a prospect of a sizable disturbance in these United States. It is scarcely too much to say that Congressmen, Senators, Governors, even judges and clergymen will share with ordinary citizens the danger of seeing the inside of a court, if not a jail, with all the anguish of publicity involved. However, there may be means of escape from the dreadful peril in not a few instances. It will be possible to claim—perhaps in many cases truthfully—that one's name is on such a tell-tale list not as a customer but merely as a "prospect" and the bootlegger's word, unsupported by other evidence, would hardly be accepted by a court as sufficient to convict. But it is likely that the mere danger of being publicly accused will tend to alleviate thirst and to decrease the number of bootleggers sales.

LABOR CAPITALISM.

Theoretically a considerable part of labor is still fighting capital, but actually the workers are rapidly becoming their own capitalists. Labor banks have increased in number, and now the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers has organized the Brotherhood Securities Corporation of New York, the primary purpose of which, it is said, is to finance the establishment of new Brotherhood banks in the Eastern States and, through majority stock ownership, to control those that are opened. The Brotherhood already owns a bank in New York, another in Boston, and is planning a third in Philadelphia. The new securities corporation is said to be similar to two other holding companies which the Brotherhood has already organized to finance and control their banks in other sections, the Brotherhood Investment Company in Cleveland and the Pacific Investment Company on the Coast.

This development of co-operative capitalism in the ranks of labor adds interest to the view of Prof. N. T. Caiver of Harvard that the labor movement in America, notwithstanding claims to the contrary, is "far in advance" of that of any other country. "The labor movement of this country," he says, "is passing out of the primitive fighting stage in which leadership concerned itself chiefly with the immediate tactics of battle. It is passing into a stage in which it is concerning itself with the higher strategy of maneuvering for permanent advantage. The leaders of labor in no other country show any sign of being aware of the first principles of this higher strategy, nor, for that matter, do the more vociferous self-appointed champions of labor in this country."

Premier Ramsay MacDonald is a close observer as well as a man of ideas. "When you put your hand to the work," he says, "you discover how simple is the English language and how difficult are the minds and ways of men. Peace—what does it mean? Security—what does it mean? Cooperation—what does it mean? No scheme can be produced but the critical minds of men can prove beyond a doubt that it will not work." Always the "aspirations of the galleries" must contend with the cynicism of experts on the floor.

Caught with $150,000 worth of shares in a bankrupt factory, Premier MacDonald explains that he accepted them from a rich friend only as an endowment for his automobile and when he ceases to keep a car the shares will revert to the donor. In addition to the novelty of the explanation doubtless some Englishmen think that a Socialist, even though a Premier, ought not to keep a car.

A SURGEON'S ADVICE.

One of the best known surgeons in North America had a very interesting article in one of the medical journals recently.

He was deploring the fact that many people who had pain in the region of the appendix, complained so often about it, that surgeons were tempted to operate, in the belief that the condition was worse than that which really existed.

The very fact that the pain is in the region of the appendix seemed to have such an effect upon their minds that they imagined a great deal of their symptoms.

He cited the case of a well known citizen who really had a severe attack of appendicitis, and it was only by a miracle that the operation was performed in time to save his life.

Within the next few weeks three of his friends consulted the surgeon, claiming to have the same symptoms as those complained of by their friend, and requesting operation before it was too late.

It took a good straight talk on the part of the surgeon to convince them that nothing was wrong with their appendix.

A good deal of the pain in that region is caused by gas, and to the pulling on the intestine due to the dropping of all the organs from loose, weak, or flabby abdominal muscles.

And this surgeon suggested the means for correcting the condition.

Was it surgical?

Not at all.

He suggested that the treatment should often be of a fourfold nature—dietary, mechanical, medicinal and psychological.

One particular suggestion was of particular interest to me, because I've been trying to tell it to folks for a long time.

He suggested a good abdominal belt and some physical training, so as to lift the abdominal organs up into their normal positions, so that they would do their work properly.

You will remember that the tightening of the muscles of the abdomen made the waist smaller, gave a proper carriage, and put the abdominal organs into their right positions.

If you want quick results then, secure a good abdominal belt. Your family physician will advise you about it.

But the big thing if you are not too old, or too weak, is to strengthen the abdominal muscles, so that they will be what they were meant to be, that is an abdominal belt.

Simply lie on back on floor, and raise—knees straight—till the body and legs form two sides of a square, not any more. Repeat this slowly eight to ten times, about three times a day, and you will not have to worry about those false appendix pains.

TIMELY REMINDER OF FALL HUNTING DAYS.

In the window of Warren's sporting goods store on Fair street is a gentle reminder that the fall hunting days are near. The interior of a hunter's cabin constructed of slabs to represent the interior of a log cabin is shown, with all of the necessary equipment which goes with a hunter's lodge. The cabin, backed with cedar trees, is complete in every detail. There are guns on racks on the wall, camp furniture of all kinds, a well stocked shelf of ammunition, fishing rods and other necessities of camp life. On the floor and walls are skins of animals while in an open fireplace is a brisk fire "burning." On the mantel over the fireplace are pipe, tobacco and a flask. The cabin displayed is the same as shown at the Kingston Exposition, slightly altered to fit in the Warren snow window.

Lighting Essay Contest Started

Lighting Educational Committee Holds Enthusiastic Meeting—Picture To Be Shown School Pupils—First Lesson Published Today.

The severe storm of Monday evening did not deter the members of the Lighting Educational Committee from attending the opening meeting at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, all the members being in attendance together with the principals of the city schools.

The plan of carrying on the educational work throughout the city schools was thoroughly outlined by Charles A. Lasher and C. R. Reel of the Electric Company. All the conditions of the contest were explained and the moving picture, "The Great Surprise," portraying the proper use of the electric light, so to conserve the eyesight and improve conditions in the home, was screened. The moving picture impressed the committee to the extent that Dr. M. J. Michael, vice-chairman, considered it of sufficient educational benefit to have the school children see the picture.

In their talks to the committee the lighting experts explained the purpose of the contest, which is under the direction of the electric industry in the United States and Canada, as a help to families in the proper use of electric lighting, so that in future years there will be less eye trouble.

Their reasons given for much of the inadequate lighting in the homes today was because the lighting was not well shaded, not enough light or because lights were not properly arranged. They also gave a brief outline of the progress of lighting since the day of the candle and emphasized that commercialism or anything that savored of it was not the purpose of the contest. Teachers of the city schools throughout the city today distributed the literature for the Home Lighting Essay Contest, which consists of announcement folders, registration cards, primer, a book of lessons and badges. All the pupils who registered today in the contest, received the literature.

The home lighting contest is open to all the children, who are regularly enrolled in the public, private or parochial schools of the city who will be ten years old or older on December 31, 1924, no member of whose immediate family is engaged in the electric industry. The literature fully explains the contest and experts in this educational campaign will address the teachers and pupils. The first lighting lesson appears in this issue of the Freeman and the remaining lessons will be published from time to time.

LESSON NO. 1

THE PROPER USE OF LIGHT

Have you ever gone into a room at night, and felt that there was too much light in the room? Perhaps it was because you came in out of the dark, and your eyes were dazzled by the light. If this feeling of dazzle persisted, there was surely something wrong with the lights.

It was not too much light, however. For in that room there was certainly not more than one-hundredth part of the light that we had during a clear day on the shady side of a tree on the building. Nor one-fifth hundredth part of what we are accustomed to find in the bright sunlight. Surely, then, the trouble in that room was not too much light!

In order to protect our eyes, all lamp bulbs should be shaded in such a way that we cannot see the lighted filament or wire inside the bulb and so that we do not even see a very bright spot in the shade directly in front of this lighted filament. When lights are shaded in this way, it is hardly possible to get too much light for comfortable vision. Sometimes the use of frosted bulbs will help to remove annoying glare.

Whenever you hear someone say that there is too much light in a room, it is safe to say the real trouble is not too much light, but rather that there is too much dazzle.

GLARE

The trouble in the room was too much glare—too much dazzle. Any very bright light which shines directly into the eyes produces glare and eyestrain. This becomes more and more unpleasant as the light stands out with greater contrast to the darkness of the background.

Lights for use in the home have improved quite rapidly during the last two or three generations and as soon as a better light was invented, we just put the new one in place of the older one. First the candle was replaced by the oil lamp, and this in turn by the gas light. Then the modern electric light bulbs or incandescent lamps were invented and used in homes instead of gas, they gave more light and was much brighter than anything we had before.

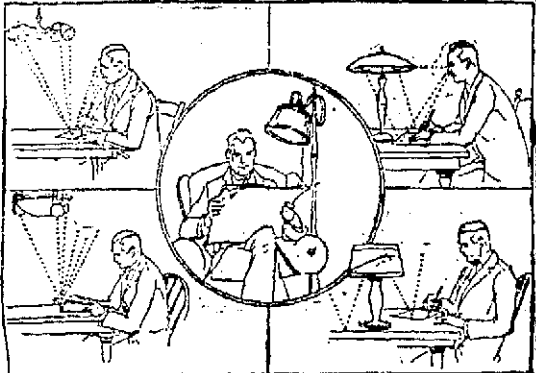

A bright light burning outdoors in the day might not even be noticed, and it would not cause glare because there would not be enough difference between the brightness of the light and the brightness of the daylight. However, at night this same light would and glare and that the lights are not properly shaded.

ANOTHER KIND OF GLARE

How tired our eyes become after a day on the water, or when the sun shines brightly on the snow covered ground. Do you remember the mischievous boy in the classroom who caught a beam of sunlight in a mirror and reflected it into your eyes? It made you start. These things are particularly annoying because our eyebrows give us no protection from this indirect or reflected light which comes in from below the level of the eyes.

This kind of glare must also be guarded against if we are reading or writing on glossy paper. The light should come over the shoulder, or be directed to the page at such an angle that a beam of light from the lighted filament of a lamp bulb cannot be reflected up into our eyes. Lamps placed in front of a mirror and shaded by shields should not be placed in such a position that the mirror will reflect the image of the lighted filament of the lamp bulb back into our eyes and cause this kind of glare.

The AMERICAN LEGION

LEGION MEET WILL BE RECORD-BREAKER

With three great conventions in progress simultaneously in four convention halls, the 1924 gathering of the American Legion and its affiliated bodies at St. Paul, Minn., from September 18 to 19 promises to be one of the greatest veterans' conventions in the history of the country. Sixty thousand visitors are expected to make the pilgrimage to the convention city, coming from every state in the Union and from many foreign lands.

Greetings to the Legionnaires will be extended on behalf of the convention city by Mayor Arthur E. Nelson, himself a Legionnaire, and on behalf of the Minnesota department of the Legion by its commander. Formal response will be made on behalf of National Commander John R. Quinn, of the Legion, by James T. Williams, Jr., editor of the Boston Transcript.

There will also be greetings from many other organizations. Among these are the Grand Army of the Republic, the United Confederate Veterans, the United Spanish War Veterans, the Women's Overseas League, the Veterans of Foreign Wars, the Disabled American Veterans, the Knights of Columbus, the Legion Auxiliary and the Forty and Eight. Commander W. B. Hahleman, of the United Confederate Veterans has stated that he will attend the convention.

At the opening session of the convention on Monday morning, Commander Quinn will make his report. It is of particular interest in this connection that this convention marks the fifth anniversary of the permanent organization of the Legion across the river from St. Paul at Minneapolis in 1919.

Among the distinguished speakers who will address the convention are Gen. Frank T. Hines, director of the United States Veterans' Bureau; Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor; Judge Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball arbiter, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross.

Impressive memorial services in honor of the World War dead will conclude the first session of the convention. Miss Alma Forker, of Bakersfield, Cal., who has been chosen as convention soloist, will sing.

Tuesday afternoon will be given over to the great convention parade, in which 25,000 marchers and more than 300 bands and drum corps will take part. Election of national officers on Friday morning will conclude the convention, which will be occupied in the meantime with formulation of Legion policies and in a round of convention festivities.

Dinner, Social Event for Legion Auxiliary

Foremost on the program of the American Legion Auxiliary convention, which opens at St. Paul, on September 18, is the state dinner, which is also the leading social event of the entire Legion convention. This banquet will be held at the Masonic temple at 7:30 o'clock on Tuesday evening.

Brilliant decorations, beautifully gowned women, lights, music, combine to make a function which is not soon forgotten. Each department has its own special table, which is decorated in distinctive fashion by the department itself. The variegated schemes contribute largely to the dash and splendor of the scene.

National officers, department delegates, national executive committee women and all chairmen of the national committees of the Auxiliary will be present. The national commander of the Legion and notables on convention committees will be guests.

Sessions of the convention proper will be held at the Central Presbyterian church and will open on Monday afternoon. Judge Kenesaw M. Landis will address the Auxiliary. Election of national officers will be held on Friday morning and will conclude the convention.

Damage Memorial Steps; Forced to Pay Neat Sum

Disregard of the fine marble steps that adorn the entrance to the Legion Memorial building at Rhinoklin, Pa., recently cost Vincent Lopez, famous leader of a dance orchestra that appeared in the Legion gymnasium last May, a neat sum in damages. In removing their trunks from the memorial building following the entertainment, members of the orchestra dragged their trunks down the marble stairs to the street, inflicting a number of dents in the ornamental stairway. Lopez and his organization appeared in the vicinity of Rhinoklin recently and a committee of the American Legion and "old John Law" armed with a warrant attended the concert. The illustrious leader at first presented an indignant mood when the claim of damages was made, but finally settled in full when confronted with a warrant and the prospects of the city battle.

IOWA LEGION MAN DRAWS PROMOTION

Outstanding work as commander of Monahan post of the American Legion at Sioux City, Iowa, in 1923, when that post shattered all membership records and became the second largest post in the world, won for Horace F. Wulf the commandment of the Eleventh Congressional district of the Iowa department. Wulf has just been advanced to the district commandment from the vice commandment. His predecessor, O. P. Bennett, resigned to make the race for county attorney of Monona county, Iowa.

The new district commander has been very active in the work of the Legion ever since his discharge from Camp Hospital No. 8 on July 15, 1919.

Horace F. Wulf.

He became sergeant at arms of Monahan post, the editor of the Monahan Post News, then post commander. During his term of office as commander, the post signed up 2,042 members.

Wulf saw 17 months of army service. Eight of these he spent in training at Camp Cody, New Mexico, where he was with the Thirty-fourth or Sandstorm division. He served overseas for nine months.

Born and reared in Sioux City, Wulf is a graduate of Morningside college. He is engaged in newspaper work in that city.

Scalpers Will Lose Out in Endeavor to Profit

After the passage of the adjusted compensation bill recently, came rumors that "scalpers" were attempting to buy up for cash at large discounts the adjusted compensation certificates of World War veterans. Such "purchases" by scalpers will be met by drastic action on the part of the veterans' bureau, and will result in the scalper finding himself with only "a scrap of paper," was the declaration of Gen. Frank Hines, director of the veterans' bureau, in representatives of the American Legion.

Attention of the veterans' bureau was called to an advertisement in which a veteran offered to sell his certificate "to the highest cash bidder." Bureau officials were also advised of reports that a huge financial pool is being organized for the purpose of buying up compensation certificates in the hope of large profits at the expense of the veteran and of the government.

In reply to the above reports, the following telegram was sent by General Hines: "No certificate issued or right conferred under the World War compensation act shall be negotiable or assignable; neither will such certificate or any right conferred serve as security for any loan except as provided in section 502 of the act, which provides for loans from banks under certain conditions. Any other negotiations or assignments are void."

Legion Home Company, New Ohio Institution

The American Legion Home Company, of Conneaut, Ohio, was recently incorporated at Conneaut, under the state laws of Ohio and received its charter in which the following provisions were included: "This corporation is formed for the purpose of promoting, assisting and fostering civic organizations, for the support and advancement of patriotic principles through local and community groups and societies organized for charity, education and recreation." According to a Legion official, the company has $11,000 with which to start the ball rolling on its Community Betterment campaign.

Soldier Peddler Law Is Regarded as Unfair

The so-called "soldier peddler's law" in effect in the state of Minnesota should be repealed, according to a resolution passed by the state legislative committee of the American Legion of Minnesota. The law enables former service men to peddle without a license. The Legion points out that under the law many outsiders have come into the state at various times and competed with local merchants who are paying taxes and who are deserving of the patronage of the consumer. The Legion legislative body also suggested that a law prohibiting aliens from teaching in the grade schools be passed.

State Club Women Start a Forest

Tree Planting on Hundred Acre Tract
for Women's Federation — Boy Scouts, Sportsmen and Business Men Cooperate in New Restoration Idea.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Albany, Sept. 22.—The first planting of trees in a 100-acre forest to be known as the Women's Federation Forest on land purchased for the purpose by the New York State Federation of Women's Clubs, between Saratoga and Glens Falls, was made Saturday when 10,000 young pine trees
from the Conservation Commission's nursery at Saratoga were set out by a volunteer troop of Boy Scouts, sportsmen and business men under the direction of J. R. Simmons, secretary-treasurer of the New York State Forestry Association.

Representative club women from the Federated Clubs of the Albany
district were present to appropriately dedicate the land to its new use and inaugurate the planting of the first women's forest in the country.

The idea of planting a forest, as a practical illustration of the interest
the club women of New York state are taking in the movement to replace our rapidly dwindling natural forests with planted forests and thereby insure a future supply of lumber and wood, took concrete form
at the annual meeting of the Federation in Albany last year when a resolution was adopted heartily approving the state's policy of reforesting idle land and pledging the support of the federated women's clubs. Further than that the Federation decided to secure a tract of land and start a forest of its own.

Mrs. E. C. Whitmyer of Schenectady, chairman of conservation of the Federation and one of the prime moves in securing the setting aside of the first week in April as conservation week was chosen to select a site and acquire the land. After considering a number of sites she selected 100 acres of typical forest land in Saratoga county admirably suited to the growing of pine. For the reforestation of this tract 100,000 trees will be required and it is planned to have the planting completed within a year.
For this fall, the Conservation Commission reserved 20,000 three-year-old white pines, the planting of which will be completed on October 4. Next spring the commission will supply 80,000 more white pines to finish the work.

Mrs. Lee P. Hynes, chairman of conservation of the Albany Woman's club with members of her committee organized a delegation of Albany women to assist in the work of reforestation and the committee arranged for taking the Boy Scouts to the tree planting. Mrs. Russell Headley acted as the official representative of the Federated Clubs of the Albany district. The committee of the Albany Women's Clubs especially interested in the work comprised: Mrs. Charles M. Gilbert, president; Mrs. Lee P.
Hynes, chairman of conservation;
Mrs. Russell Headley, honorary chairman; Mrs. Newton Russell Case; Mrs.
Lemuel Holmes, 2nd; Mrs. Leon Janinet; Mrs. Frederick Prunty; Mrs.
George W. Stedman, and Mrs. Frederick J. Stephens.

It is expected that the example set by the State Federation will be followed by the planting of forests sponsored by club women in other parts of the state where there is idle lawn suitable for reforestation. The Albany Women's Club is planning to secure a tract of land in Albany county to be reforested and conducted along the lines of the State Federation Forest.

Work Done by Salvation Army

More Remains to be Done and the Army is Now Raising Funds for a Lodging House for the Stranded.

One of the outstanding needs of Kingston is to be met by the local Salvation Army. This is housing accommodation for those who are stranded in town and unable to pay for hotel room. Captain Ralph Miller, the officer in charge of the local work, reports that during the past months a great number of folks who came to Kingston seeking employment have called on him for shelter for the night. Most of these men have been allowed to sleep on the benches in the Army Hall on North Front street with their coats for a pillow. The captain feels that with a generous response from the people of Kingston the old historic building on the corner of North Front and Green streets can be turned into a very suitable shelter. Very often women find themselves in Kingston without shelter. One of the rooms of the house will be available for women. John H.
Gregory has contributed over fifteen beds for this very much needed shelter.

The local branch has had an active and busy year working for others who have needed help in our city. They have put out a card with full particulars as to what has been accomplished in their work of helpfulness during the past year, from which the following statistics are taken:

BOARD OF WATER SUPPLY ANNUAL CLAMBAKE.

The annual clambake of the board of water supply employees and their friends was held at the grove near Hardenbergh Falls, Prattsville, on Saturday afternoon, September 20.
More than 160 enjoyed the bake, which was par excellence in every detail and reflects great credit on the committee of arrangements.
The food was well cooked and the service could not have been improved.

Previous to the bake a very exciting ball game took place with picked teams from the contractors and engineers, but neither side scored going to the call for dinner, which came promptly on time.

All the contractors on the water works job were represented and many guests arrived from New York and elsewhere to enjoy the good time.

The "Silver Tongued Orator" Engineer Ahearn was on hand to introduce the many speakers and made the after dinner speeches most interesting.

Among the many letters and telegrams received from those who could not attend was one from Chief Engineer Merriman, who expressed great regret at not being able to attend owing to the present stress of

The bake closed with many cheers
and songs and will long be remembered as the best ever.

Legend of the Raven

There is an ancient belief that the raven was originally white but was turned black for its disobedience. The Greek legend is that Apollo sent the bird to the fountain for water but on arrival it found a fig tree with fruit so nearly ripe that it decided to wait until it was quite so; and, since an excuse for the delay was necessary, it brought back to the god a water snake in his pitcher with the explanation that the creature had drunk the fountain dry.—

COOLIDGE-DAWES TRIBLES ADORN WOMEN'S FINGERS.

With the advent of the woman in politics has come the campaign trible to run hand and hand with the campaign button which held sway exclusively in the days
when men alone had the vote. Thousands of little thrifbles of white metal circled with a blue enameled band and bearing the names "Coolidge-Dawes," have already made their way into home-in the east, and they are becoming increasingly popular.

The new emblem has aroused a wave of interest among women, who feel that the trible is not only of practical use to them, but that it is a more dignified party badge than a button.

The trible serves as a reminder of the campaign so that women in sewing circles find it convenient to discuss Republican issues while they continue with their household mending or other sewing. They often do not have time for political meetings and the trible has been the means of prompting them to political discussion that otherwise would not occur to them.

The campaign trible was first introduced two years ago in Kentucky
by Mrs. Alvin T. Hart, leader of Republican women voters in America.
It was first distributed in the present campaign at a meeting of the Coolidge-Dawes Club in Rochester, N. Y.

AGENTS REPORT KINGSTON A MOIST PLACE

The wettest spot in Eastern New York is Kingston, the home of State Prohibition Director Palmer Canfield.
Prohibition Agents William Mc-
Cay, Joseph Mattes and John Olsen
so reported today to Divisional Chief R. Q. Merrick when they returned from a tour of inspection which included Kingston, Phoenixia, Ellenville, Middletown, Goshen and other towns.

Of the twenty-one prisoners taken by the agents, fifteen were arrested in Kingston, where, in one day, the agents closed eight speak estates after seizing a small quantity of liquor in each place.—New York Evening World, September 22.

PATIENT SAVING BETTER THAN SPASMODIC ECONOMY

By S. W. Straus, President American Society for Thrift

Goethe observed that, "enthusiasm is of the greatest value,
when we are not carried away
by it."

In the matter of saving, there is such a thing as being carried away by enthusiasm. The miser is an example of this. In order to save and get ahead steadily it is vital that we always keep our feet on the solid ground of prudence.

To be effective,
saving must be continuous. The person who pinches and saves
every possible
penny for a short time and then gives up and quits, will never reach the goal of independence or success.
Therefore, it is well always to have in mind the matter of moderation. Saving a reasonable amount regularly gives ever increasing stabilization and strength.

When we are strong and well
we are apt to pay little or no attention to matters of health.
Then if we become ill we suddenly become greatly interested in the care of our physical being and we feel that when we recover we will never again allow ourselves to become neglectful
in these matters.

It is the same way regarding financial matters. In the vigor of youth or in times of great prosperity, we are apt to disregard the value of thrift. We drift along from day to day and year to year without making preparations for the future.

Then suddenly
some misfortune
happens and we find ourselves confronted by the stern
realities of financial impairment.
Possibly we have lost our position
through illness or
the source of our income is unexpectedly wiped out.
Then we think of thrift and make up our minds
that if we ever become prosperous again we shall not neglect to put aside a portion of our earnings for the future.

Being thrifty does not mean that we must be an extremist in the matter of saving money or in giving up rightful pleasures.
Cultivate moderation. Do not save to the point of being a miser, nor to the exclusion of the various uplifting elements that have a rightful place in our lives.
On the other hand, we must use moderation in the matter of pleasure and out of our earnings
make sure that we are providing for the lean days that are sure to come.

The Intoxicated Auto Driver

State Motor Vehicle Commissioner Points Out Need for Cooperation of Motoring Public in Eliminating This Danger.

Writing on the subject of "The Intoxicated Auto Driver," State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Charles H. Harrett says:

"If there is any one section of the New York State Motor Vehicle Law with deliberately inserted provisions of drastic penalties, yet a section meeting with the unqualified approval of the public, it is that part of the law dealing with the punishment that must be meted out to persons operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of intoxicants. And that is exactly as it should be. Every possible effort must be made to keep the drunken driver off the highways of this state.

"That the Legislature had no intention of leaving the punishment of second offenders to the discretion of the courts or anyone connected with the Motor Vehicle Bureau, is perfectly clear. The law says that a first offender is guilty of a misdemeanor. If a person operates a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition, after having been convicted of operating a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition, that person shall be guilty of a felony, punishable by imprisonment for not less than sixty days nor more than two years, and by a fine of not less than two hundred dollars nor more than two thousand dollars.

"To those who are more or less familiar with criminal procedure it may seem that the first offender is in no particular danger, inasmuch as he is guilty of a misdemeanor—the punishment being within the discretion of the court.

"However, another part of the same section of the law says the license of any person convicted of driving an automobile while in an intoxicated condition must be revoked. That being the case, even the first offender will be without a license until it is restored by the commissioner of motor vehicles, and while I am acting in that capacity, obtaining from me a restoration of a license revoked for this cause will be one of the most difficult tasks imaginable.

"In any case I would not consider the restoration of such a license within a year from the date of the conviction. And in no case would I give the matter even the slightest favorable consideration until the person convicted presented to me a communication in writing from the judge or magistrate before whom the matter had appeared and the revocation made, reciting special circumstances seemingly warranting a restoration, and a recommendation from the judge or magistrate that the license be restored. Even then I do not say that I would act in accordance with the recommendation for restoration. I merely state this requirement absolutely necessary before I would give the case any consideration.

"With this policy carefully adhered to, the probability of second offenders inviting a compulsory jail sentence is materially lessened. Of course, here and there a person who has lost a driving license through conviction on a charge of intoxication, may decide to 'take a chance' and operate a motor vehicle without the license.

"Should any such cases arise there is absolutely no reason why leniency should be shown the offender. The operation of a motor vehicle without a license as required by law is a serious violation, but the person who operates while his license is suspended or revoked is not entitled to the least consideration.

"In the elimination of the drunken driver we perhaps need the cooperation of the motoring public as much, or more, than in any other phase of motor vehicle law enforcement.

"No person with a conscience and any regard for human life will attempt the operation of a motor vehicle while in an intoxicated condition. On the other hand, few people will admit intoxication; it is commonly known as a difficult charge to prove, yet through the cooperation of the motor public both these obstacles can be removed. First by personal abstinence from the operation of a motor vehicle when there is the slightest reason to believe yourself incapable, and secondly by seeing to it that the other fellow does likewise.

"The person who looks upon this matter of the intoxicated driver as something that applies only to the other fellow, is in grave error. We know that drunken drivers have been the direct cause of death to many innocent persons, and you or some one dear to you may be next. Do your part to rid the state of this menace.

EVERY OPERATOR MUST BE LICENSED OCTOBER 1.

Every motor vehicle operator in New York state must be licensed October 1, or be subject to arrest. It is estimated there are about 1,500,000 operators in the state who will be required to comply with this provision of the new law.

Thousands are still unlicensed. Every public spirited motorist should aid in bringing about full enforcement of the law, which is designed to save human lives by preventing careless and reckless driving, by obtaining a license as soon as possible.

If you operate a motor vehicle and have not obtained a license, apply for one today. Don't wait until the last minute. Help to avert a jam of applicants in the closing hours just before October 1.

POSTAL SERVICE EXTENSION RAPID IN PAST THREE YEARS

Postmaster Walter P. Crane has received a communication from Postmaster General Harry S. New in which is outlined the growth of the postal system in the United States. A number of interesting figures regarding the expansion of the postal service are given.

The postmaster general states that the expansion in the postal service has been so rapid and at times uneven that it has for short intervals taxed to the extreme all the efforts and energies of the postal organization and the existing appropriations. This expansion is measured by two distinct considerations; one is the increase in postal receipts, there having been a total increase in three years of $188,508,725, so that the annual receipts last year reached the sum of $572,000,000. The other consideration is the spread of towns and cities due to the influence of the automobile. The same number of people doing the same amount of business are now spread over a far greater area than formerly. People are not residing so closely together in the cities. Because of this fact cities have grown in the last few years out into the country and suburbs to an extent not ordinarily appreciated. The mail carrier must go where they are. It is not possible to measure in exact terms how much this new phase in the spread of cities has cost the postal service in the number of carriers rendered necessary, the number of motor vehicles required, and otherwise.

To meet this postal expansion and the service improvements, "regular" employees have been added to the service in the number of 17,995. These are divided as follows: Railway clerks, 1,453; laborers in post offices, 1,389; motor vehicle employees, 372; carriers, 5,297; and post office clerks, 9,470. Within the cities there have been established 191 "classified" sub-stations and 537 so-called "contract" postal stations. New carrier service in 104 villages has been established and new "city service" in 144 small cities.

In farming and rural districts there have been established in three years 1,008 rural routes, and many existing routes have been lengthened so that service has been extended to 730,393 people who hitherto have had no delivery service. There are now served by rural routes 6,534,360 families and the total population is 39,060,816.

The motor vehicle service requires 8,758 motor trucks. Of this number 5,278 are government-owned.

Postmaster General New states that the postal "deficit" has at the same time been reduced from $82,400,000 to about $18,000,000, which has been accomplished by the inauguration of better business methods.

Daily air mail service from New York to San Francisco has been established, being the longest air line in the world and the only route upon which night as well as day flying is employed. An airplane service was established and run as an experiment in Alaska, covering a route from Fairbanks to McGrath, which ordinarily takes the dog sleds 35 days in each direction. The air mail carries larger cargoes than the dog sleds and the round trip was made in one day, going out in the morning and back in the evening. The outcome of this experiment will undoubtedly be the rather universal application of the airplane to postal service in Alaska. There are 68 dog routes which are run in relays at the present time in Alaska employing about 3,000 dogs.

Post offices on trans-Atlantic steamers, discontinued during the war, have been reestablished on the Atlantic and similar post offices established for the first time on trans-Pacific ships. Airplanes have been put in service between Seattle and Victoria, B. C., and between New Orleans and the mouth of the Mississippi river. The policy of shipping all possible foreign mail in ships carrying the American flag has been followed and has resulted in giving American shipping much more business.

The work of the Dead Letter office has been facilitated by the establishment of sub-offices and such articles as are impossible to identify or deliver are sold more promptly and to better advantage.

Publicity campaigns have been maintained for the purpose of securing better addresses and to hold in check as far as possible the amount of mail which finally reaches the Dead Letter office.

Under a new law and regulation, Holy Scripture manuscripts for the blind may be sent free if given to the blind, and if sold to them at cost, it is transported at the low rate of 1 cent per pound, instead of parcel post rate.

He also cites the work done by the department to prevent fraudulent use of the mails by the issuing of fraud orders against parties found guilty by the postmaster general. A fraud order means that the person or corporation against whom it is issued can receive no mail; the mail being returned to the sender or sent to the Dead Letter office. Since March 4, 1921, there have been issued 551 fraud orders against many companies or individuals. Of that number 234 were issued against those engaged in oil stock frauds.

The work of the postal savings bank is commended. There is now a total deposit of $133,000,000. Foreigners resident in this country are the largest patrons of these institutions.

There have been 34 holdups of mail trains, trucks, post offices, etc., resulting in over 7,000,000 in currency and securities having been stolen, but a large fraction of this has been recovered through the work of the inspection corps. By means of fingerprinting hundreds of employees having criminal records have been weeded out of some of the large post offices.

There are at present employed by the post office department and the postal services 266,640, and the number of persons connected with the postal service by contract, etc., is $7,191, a total of 353,831 persons employed in receiving and delivering the mail.

The series of group meetings on the Kingston District, conducted by the district superintendent, the Rev. G. W. Grinton, came to a climax on Saturday at the Cairo Fair Grounds, where between 800 and 1,000 people gathered for this annual event.

Appeal Taken In Walkkill Case

An appeal from the decision reached by the Compensation Commissioner in the matter of Charles Wynkoop against the Dairyman's League and Henry W. Dunn is to be heard in Albany on October 2. The appeal is from an award made in the case of the death of Nelson Wynkoop, who was killed in Walkkill about two years ago. Wynkoop was in the employ of Dunn, who was drawing coal from the railroad train for the Dairyman's League headquarters in Walkkill. The horses attached to the wagon driven by Wynkoop took fright at the noise caused by coal being run into the wagon and threw Wynkoop in front of the vehicle and he was run over and died. The case was taken before the State Industrial Commission and Dairyman's League was exempted from responsibility and the expenses of the case placed on Dunn, who has also taken an appeal from the exemption made. The award was made against Dunn for $244 damages, and $100 to defray funeral expenses. Mr. Wynkoop to whom the money was to be paid depended on the son for his support and the amount named was to be paid him. He is over 75 years of age and unable to work for himself. W. J. Lamont will represent Wynkoop.

Sweet Boom Gets New Life

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 23.—Despite the fact that early today several of the leaders insisted that Colonel Theodore Roosevelt would be nominated for governor at the Republican State convention which opens here tomorrow, strong opposition to Roosevelt developed among some of the county leaders as the day wore along. Gossip flew thick and fast in the hotel corridors this afternoon regarding Roosevelt's candidacy. Supporters of the assistant secretary of the navy, however, vigorously denied there had been any change, and insisted he would be nominated on the second or third ballot.

The opposition to Roosevelt, it was reported, was preparing to get behind Congressman Thaddeus C. Sweet of Oswego, former speaker of the State Assembly.

The Wrong Hat

The good person was a bit absent-minded and somewhere or other during the day, possibly at the barber shop, he acquired a hat that looked very like his but belonged to someone else. That evening he dined out and when the guests were leaving the host accompanied them to the door.

"This is yours, is it not?" said the host, picking up the parson's hat.

"Yes," said the parson, "That is mine."

There was a queer smile on the host's face as he handed over the headgear. For pasted in the crown thereof was a card bearing this legend, meant for all and sundry: "No, you fool! This ain't your hat."—Boston Transcript.

Precedent Established

Seated in dignified ease on a mat before his booth, a Chinese vegetable vender proceeded to arrange some measures of artichokes. A haughty citizen came along and overturned a measure, thus disclosing that the finest specimens were on top. Whereupon he upbraided the vender, saying:

"How is it, wily one, that you put the biggest artichokes at the top?"

"Is it not that way with life, Honorable?" responded the vender calmly.

"Are not the biggest men at the top?"

honor was Miss Lillian Benoit of Bristol, Connecticut. Her dress was of orchid silk and she carried a shower bouquet of Orpheus roses. Upon their return they will reside on St. John's Place, Brooklyn, N. Y., where a newly furnished home awaits them.

Orchard Information

FRUIT FIRE BLIGHT CAN BE CONTROLLED

Fire blight of apples and pears is also known as blossom blight, blight canker, body blight, spur blight, etc. It not only attacks the pear and apple, but also quince, hawthorne, other pome fruits, and even the mountain ash is a host to the disease. This disease is easily transmitted from any of these hosts to any other, for fire blight is a bacterial disease.

Have you noticed a dying-back of growing tips on pears and apples, the tips dying back for several inches, turning brown, and the leaves hanging on? That's fire blight. An orchard heavily attacked will have a fire-scorched appearance, says a writer in Successful Farming. Sometimes the attack is so severe that young fruit is affected, becoming shriveled, turning black, exuding a milky, sticky fluid. Bees and other insects readily carry infection from one tree to another. Blossoms attacked wither and turn brown. Spurs and branches are often infected from the blossom cluster or fruit cluster.

An infected branch frequently results in developments of a canker. A canker may also form from infection due to a pruning or other wound. Here it becomes commonly known as body blight due to its position in the tree. When infection is at all serious death of the tree generally comes to pass in a short time.

Control is possible. It is possible even with pears, but so difficult that the pear industry has been swept out of existence in many sections by blight. Apples, most varieties being less susceptible to injury than pears, are more easily protected.

I know of one pear orchard in California in which gangs of men patrol every week throughout the growing season, carefully clipping diseased twigs far below the point of injury, disinfecting wound and tools after each cut.

The infected twigs should be removed as soon as noticed in the apple orchard, too. Be sure to cut well below the point of blight evidence.

For a disinfectant solution one of the best is corrosive sublimate, one to one thousand. A seven-and-a-half-grain tablet of the disinfectant dissolved in a pint of water will be proper. Carry the solution in a bottle, with a sponge, which may be saturated in order to thoroughly wet the wound after each cut. A long-necked catsup bottle makes a handy container. The sponge may be wired in place over the mouth of the bottle. One bottle may be swung from the belt, where it will be readily at hand, another rigged up and attached to a pole pruner to touch up wounds made out of reach of the hand.

The work of blight eradication may be greatly facilitated by proper tools. Hand pruning shears, a saw, a long pole pruner, a scraper or plumb line, a shovel, and a good sharp, sturdy knife will fill the bill.

While cutting out blight as it appears is highly important, and should by no means be neglected, neither should the importance of eradicating hold-over cankers be overlooked.

Poison Bait Effective to Control Field Mice

By far the most satisfactory way of controlling field mice is by the use of poison. The biological survey has developed several formulas for preparing baits and directions for distributing them which have been found very effective when carefully followed. Wherever valuable trees or plants are to be protected it is highly desirable to maintain at all times a supply of effective poisoned bait. This may be accomplished through the use of baits with moisture-resistant coatings exposed in suitable containers, or stations. When properly placed such baits will not only destroy the pest mice but will account for all mice that may move in from time to time. This method of poisoning is being followed in many eastern orchards with very gratifying results and makes for both efficiency and economy.

Horticultural Squibs

It is not advisable to plant cherries in solid blocks if you expect to get them to set fruit.

Thoroughness in spraying is just as necessary as the spraying formula you use.

The fruit stand apple represents: Raw material, 1 cent; transportation, 1 cent; cost of handling, 2 cents; shine, 6 cents.

Plant lice feeding on the buds and foliage of fruit trees are readily controlled by spraying with three-fourths of a pint of nicotine sulphate to 100 gallons of water, to which is added three pounds of soap. This is a contact insecticide and kills by coming in contact with the body of the insect.

If you would have a good orchard or garden, erect a good windbreak. A few trees well set protect the house from cold in the winter and dazzling heat in summer—remember that.

Fleece Weight Up

In 1840 the average weight for fleece was only 1.85 pounds for the entire nation. Now the national average is from 7 to 8 pounds. In Oregon, the average is 9 pounds, with many bands averaging 10 pounds.

Financial and Commercial

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 23.—With transactions again declining and trading confined to the market leaders, price changes in the stock market were mostly fractional in the early trading today. Return of speculative interest to the public utility stocks, however, saw North American, Consolidated Gas, United Railways Investment Preferred and other stocks in that group, register minimum gains of two points.

Slight gains were also made in first prices of American Can, United States Steel, Baldwin, American Smelting and other of the industrial leaders as well as in the leading rails and specialties.

Some of the oil stocks continued their moderate rise, the best records being made by Royal Dutch, Phillips Petroleum and the Standard Oils, while Sinclair and Cosden sold off under pressure.

Lower rates for time funds and superabundance of call money characterized the money markets. The cotton market was dull pending the publication of the government's report at noon. Foreign exchanges were steady. The bond market was strong. Wheat prices advanced about one cent a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade, but corn was irregular, with September down 1 1/2 cents a bushel.

While the number of stocks making new highs for the year was not as large as yesterday, the forward movement of the list as a whole was more impressive. Market activity broadened out to include a number of stocks which have been temporarily inactive.

After a few of the railroad shares had made an unsuccessful attempt to stage a rally, speculative interest next went to the oils, but they were soon deserted in favor of the specialty stocks. Heavy buying of Worthington Pump sent that stock up six points to 4 1/4, a gain of 15 over last week's low. The rise in Worthington is based on the prospect of a huge volume of new business utilizing its new inventions.

General Baking was pushed forward seven points more to a new high at 157; East Iron Pipe at 110 1/4 was in new high ground for all time; Nash Motors, General Electric, National Lead and Allis Chalmers were the leaders in a new forward movement of prices in the fourth hour, and many of the old line industrial leaders made a tardy addition to the list.

A better tone was also exhibited by the oil stocks, with issues like Pacific Oil, Marland, Standard of New Jersey, Phillips, Atlantic Refining, Cosden and Producers and Refiners from a fraction to 1 1/2 points higher.

The northwestern rails were favorably affected by the reports of improvements in the territory they serve as rendered by Howard Elliott and other officials of the Northern Pacific, Great Northern and Northwestern railroads. Selling about a point higher, Northern Pacific was one of the most active rails on the board. New Haven was in demand at fractionally higher prices; Southern Railway made up about 3/4 its dividend; Missouri Pacific and Frisco issues had another active day, though prices failed to gain much headway.

Public utilities held all of their recent gains with Brooklyn Union Gas developing into a real market leader and American Water Works near the high price for the year. National Biscuit at 7 1/4 was in new high ground and Mack Trucks at 99 1/4 showed a gain of two points. Standard Plate Glass was weak.

Big Improvement In Railroads

By Telegram to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 23.—A study of the efficiency of railroads during recent years just completed by the National Industrial Conference Board, 247 Park avenue, New York city, reveals a steady improvement in the performance of Class I Railroads as measured by the volume of traffic moved each year since 1915.

The question of railroad efficiency, the board points out, is the chief bone of contention in the continuous discussions of railroad performance and in the new proposals for railroad regulation which continually emerge in congress. The board's study is a pioneer attempt to determine on the basis of official statistics whether and to what degree the efficiency of the railroads in moving traffic has increased or decreased in recent years.

The board points out four major factors which determine railroad performance: First, the growth of plant and equipment. Second, the utilization of labor. Third, the efficiency of management, and fourth, the influence of the public as shippers and as legislators on railroad operation. Only the first two of these factors are capable of statistical measurement, the board says, and analysis of official data shows a vast expansion of railroad equipment since 1915 despite the unfavorable financial situation of the railroads, and a considerable increase in the utilization of railroad labor, both of which have contributed under improved management and better cooperation of the shipping public for a great increase in the total performance of the American railroads.

As an indication of the increased efficiency, the report shows that from 1915 to 1923, there was a 23% increase in the number of ton miles produced, with an increase of only 1% in the number of freight cars used. In the same period passenger traffic increased 13% and the total traffic units increase was 20% greater in 1923 than in 1915, the greatest for any year in the period studied.

THIN FOLKS! PUT MORE RED IN YOUR BLOOD

Thin folks who are weakened and run down and who want to build themselves up with firm solid flesh need to do something to tone and strengthen the blood.

The best way to accomplish both of these results at the same time is through the use of Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets. This is a new scientific discovery that presents all the famous tonic virtues of the best Cod Liver Oil combined with iron in pleasant to-take sugar coated tablet form.

Thin folks are usually thin blooded and need more iron in the blood to give it strength and vigor. As there are cheap imitations on the market said to contain Cod Liver Oil be sure to specify Burke's Cod Liver Oil and Iron Tablets. Don't forget to mention iron when you ask your druggist. Every druggist supplies a two weeks' treatment for $1.00—the most economical way you can buy.

YOU POOR KID, WHY ARE YOU SO SKINNY?

Don't your mother know that Cod Liver Oil will put pounds of good healthy flesh on your bones in just a few weeks?

Tell her every druggist has it in sugar-coated tablet form now so that you won't have to take the nasty, fishy-tasting oil that is apt to upset the stomach.

Tell her that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets are chock-full of vitamins and are the greatest flesh producers and health builders she can find.

One sickly, thin kid, aged 9, gained 12 pounds in 7 months.

She must ask any good druggist for McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Tablets—10 tablets, 60 cents—as pleasant to take as candy.

"Get McCoy's, the original and genuine Cod Liver Oil Tablet."

Daisy Ennist's Case Adjourned

Supervisor Albert Vogel who she shot is expected to leave hospital within ten days to which time hearing was adjourned—Other Police Cases.

Judge William D. Brinnier appeared before Judge Schirick in police court this morning as attorney for Daisy Ennist, who is under arrest on a charge of shooting Supervisor Albert Vogel in the face with a shot gun. The hearing had been adjourned until this time and this morning another adjournment was taken for ten days at which time it is expected that Supervisor Vogel will be able to be in court.

Chief of Police J. Allan Wood stated to Judge Schirick that Mr. Vogel was reported as gradually improving and would shortly leave the Benedictine Hospital where he was taken after being shot.

At the request of Judge Brinnier his client, Daisy, was paroled in his custody and he promised to produce her in court at the adjourned hearing.

Cannon Case Adjourned.
The hearing in the case of William Cannon of Stony Hollow, arrested on a charge of driving an auto while intoxicated, was adjourned to Thursday. Cannon is now out on bail. He is represented by Attorney A. J. Cook.

Pork Chop Case Dismissed.
There was no appearance in police court this morning on the part of George Jones who had had George N. Cole of Farrelly street arrested on a charge of selling him a pound of pork chops on a Sunday in violation of the charter. On motion of Attorney Walter H. Gill, who appeared for Cole, the defendant was discharged.

Ryan Fined $10.
John Ryan of the lower section of the city was picked up drunk during the storm of Monday night by officer Fatum. This morning Judge Schirick fined John $10, which he paid.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATRES

The attraction at the Opera House this evening will be Sam H. Harris's production, "Rain." This play ran on Broadway for two entire seasons. "Rain" is the joint work of John Colton and Clemence Randolph, who dramatized it from a short story called Miss Thompson.

At the Keeney Theatre this evening, "Monsieur Beaucaire" will be screened. At the performances Monday large attendances were pleased with this photoplay.

Two capacity houses greeted the opening of the week's stay at the Orpheum Theatre of Hoyt's Musical Revue Monday night. The two comedians, Lew Williams and George Rubin, are the kind who keep the audience laughing. A new change of program, specialties, scenery, etc., is to be made both Wednesday and Friday. The picture is a George Neiford production and a first run Paramount, "Tiger Love," with Antonio Moreno and Estelle Taylor.

At the Auditorium tonight Mae Marsh and Harry Meyers with its delightful humanity, this screen version of a Belasco play will touch the heart strings and provide rich entertainment.

Rooks Affected by Cholera

In the years 1831-1832 cholera visited the British islands and killed over 60,000 people. On the estate of the marquis of Sligo was the largest rookery in Ireland, and as soon as the disease broke out in the neighborhood the rooks cleared out. They appear to have gone to the sea, for on the coast immense numbers were found lying dead. When the outbreak was over the survivors straggled back.

Cyril Proclaims Self Czar of Russias

GRAND DUKE CYRIL

Grand Duke Cyril, cousin of the late Czar of Russia, has issued a manifesto in Bucharest, declaring himself to be the "Czar of all the Russias" and dedicating himself to the work of freeing Russia from the Soviet regime. Cyril's oldest son, Vladimir, is declared heir to the throne. Cyril was banished in 1905 because he married Victoria Melita, divorced Grand Duchess of Hesse. He was pardoned in 1908 and fought in the Russo-Japanese War.

Spanish Swamp Home of Wild Camel Herd

Wild camels exist in western Europe, within two days' journey from Piccadilly circus, writes a correspondent of the London Mail. There are a considerable number of them in this mysterious "colony" but no one knows exactly how many. To survive they have actually become semi-aquatic.

Up the Guadalquivir in Andalusia is the dreariest malarial swamp in Spain, and perhaps in the world, an endless vista of waterlogged wilderness, broken only by occasional low islands covered with willow scrub. Here, among enormous flocks of gulls and greylag geese, teal, widgeon, pochard and mallard, dwell the outcast camels. In another five years the colony will have completed a century of life in western Europe. Their ancestors were brought over from Africa in 1820 by the Marquis de Villafraña for farm work.

Villafraña's horses panicked, however, as horses will unless carefully "accustomed" to camel, and there were some nasty accidents. Rather than have the work of his estates upset by labor trouble, the Marquis turned his camels loose. Some were killed. The descendants of those who took to the "marisma" survived.

Vision of Cookhouse Reads Like Gulliver

In Paul Bunyan's camp there was a great cookhouse with a kitchen like another Mammoth cave, and a dining hall wherein, under huge and lofty beams, the tables were ranged like the ranks of an army corps drawn up for parade on a plain. Here were served breakfasts of ham and eggs and hot cakes, and huge and incomparable Sunday dinners and the simpler weekday meals of which the coffee was most highly praised, writes James Stephens in the American Mercury.

Paul Bunyan invented a machine for the mixing of the hot-cake batter, so perfectly devised that paying contractors now employ small models of it for mixing cement. The range on which a battalion of cooks fried the hot cakes was greased by a ski champion from Norway, who skied to and from with sides of bacon strapped to his feet.

And that the men in the far end of the cookhouse might be served before the hot cakes cooled, the flunkies speeded on roller skates. It required a crew of 11 teamsters with teams and scrapers to keep the yard back of the cookhouse cleared of coffee grounds and egg shells.

Kerbau's Sensitive Nose
Malay bull fights are not like those we are accustomed to read about, a writer in the Youth's Companion tells us. The contestants are generally water buffaloes—animals that, says Mr. Carver Wells in Asia, the Malays call kerbau.

A kerbau, or carabao, as it is often written in English, makes, continues Mr. Wells, a white man's life miserable because he does not like the white man's smell, though he doesn't mind the smell of a Chinese or a Malay. If you think you have no smell, just go near a kerbau! He not only sees you a long way off, but he instantly begins to sniff the air. Then he lays his ears back and rushes at you. I remember once being chased out of a rice field by a kerbau. The rice was growing in deep mud, and I was rushing along up to my knees, with the great animal floundering behind me. While I was shrieking for help a little Malay boy about four years old and quite naked ran up, caught the bull by the nose and led him away! Never in my life had I felt such a fool!

"Rime" and "Rhyme"

"Rime" is now the generally preferred spelling of this word. The spelling "rhyme" does not seem to have occurred until about the middle of the sixteenth century. It probably arose from the false analogy between "rhyme" and "rhythm." The tendency now is to return to the original and correct form of the word—"rime."—The Pathfinder.

HOMESPUN YARN

A community twenty years from now is just as strong as its schools are today.

A water system on the farm and in the farm home lightens loads and saves steps.

Aunt Ada's axioms: The easiest way to learn the rules of the game of life is to obey the rules of play; even a croquet set helps.

The jelly bag needs to be made of a thick closely woven material such as cotton flannel in order to prevent the particles of fruit going through the cloth. The freer the juice is of sediment, the clearer the jelly will be.

One housewife washes on Tuesday so that she can sort her clothes and put them to soak on Monday without breaking the Sabbath. She says it saves almost a third of her work on wash-day.

Don't pare new potatoes; their skins are too thin and inconsequential to be regarded seriously and the best part of the potato is right next to the skin.

Grape pie is a tasty dish; prepare for it by skinning the grapes, heating to soften, and rubbing through a sieve to remove the seeds. Add the skins again, sugar to taste, and bake in any good pie crust.

Dancing every Wednesday and Saturday evening, Clermont Hall, Charles Howard's Orchestra.

AGRICULTURE

Pick seed corn early, before severe frosts damage its vitality.

Are you keeping up that spray for late potato blight? September is the month that gets 'em.

What did you think of your county fair this year? Remember, it's yours, and it's just what you make it.

The corn harvester will have to stand a lot of grief during September. A good overhauling beforehand is in order.

The new agricultural business course at the state college at Ithaca carries no tuition charge to residents of New York state.

Uncle Ab says he's seen it a lot wetter and a lot drier, but that all in all, there isn't much better weather to be had than what we're getting.

"A man should not go into the sheep business, but grow into it," is an old saying, but never more true than today. Junior projects offer the logical beginning for this, and Bulletin F 134 helps the youngsters start. Write your name and address to the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, and ask for it.

SHEEP GROWERS FIND WOOL VALUES STRONG

Sheep growers are finding present wool values strong and markets active, more so than in any previous year at this period since the wool growers of this state began to sell their wool cooperatively, according to officers of the New York State Sheep Growers Cooperative Association.

Experience in cooperative selling during previous years has proven satisfactory but 1924 promises to be a banner season. More than half the entire pool was sold early in September and is now being shipped to the mills as rapidly as possible.

The 1924 pool will exceed that of 1923 by several thousand pounds. On September 1 it amounted to over 470,000 pounds. The following sales have been made at what most sheep growers consider very satisfactory prices: 3/4 combing, 54 cents; 3/4 clothing, 48 cents; 1/4 combing, 52 cents; 1/4 clothing, 44 cents; low and common, 40 cents; rejects, 38 cents; tags, 18 cents. These prices are f. o. b. the warehouse at Syracuse.

Growers who sold to local dealers in the spring received only from 30 to 42 cents per pound for their wool.

The quotations stated above are top prices. For many years the wools from New York state were quoted on the Boston markets at from 2 to 4 cents below similar wools supposed to have been grown in Ohio. This condition resulted from the selling of wools poorly conditioned and unattractive in appearance. Since the advent of the cooperative association, wools have been properly graded and top quotations have been secured.

New York Specialist

COMES TO KINGSTON

On Wednesday, Sept. 24, and Examine All Cases Free at 163 Clinton Ave. from 9 a. m. to 12 and 1 to 5 and 7 to 8 p. m.

Dr. Swinburne, Specialist Gives Wonderful Relief To Many Patients After Failure of Local Doctors.

Mrs. Earl Howland of Audover,
N. Y., writes as follows: Dr. Swinburne has saved me from the grave
and I cannot praise him too highly.
I was a total wreck from stomach trouble for seven years. Had tried a number of doctors but they could not help me. Could eat very little,
and would have sinking spells and paralytic. After taking three months' treatment of Dr. Swinburne
I can say I am cured and feel like a new woman.

HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE?
A new bugaboo for many cases is Blood Pressure. Some doctors seem to claim nearly all the ills are caused by it. Two patients recently were being treated for High Blood Pressure and careful examination proved
they were suffering from Low Pressure, and treating to reduce the blood pressure only made them
worse. If you have any such trouble
after secure reliable advice concerning it, for it is usually caused from weak stomach or liver trouble.

ACH WILL HELP MANY OTHER DISEASES.
In nine-tenths of the ailments
there is some weakness of the stomach and poor assimilation of foods
that has caused the more serious diseases. If you have already developed other disease conditions such as headache, recurring vomiting spells, gall stones, jaundice or the more distressing disorders of malnutrition, neuritis, neurasthenia, rheumatism or heart weakness, you should at once begin a course of treatment to build up digestive and assimilative functions and the results from such treatment is often astounding.

Rheumatism Relieved by Treating the Stomach.
Mr. Henry Cole, a fireman, was so badly crippled from rheumatism that he had to give up work, and could only get around with the aid of crutches. He had treated with a number of doctors without obtaining any relief, until he became much discouraged and thought there was no hope for him.

His attention was called to a similar case where Dr. Swinburne had produced wonderful results in reversing rheumatic trouble by giving treatment to cure the stomach of the liver acidity, and stop the accumulation of acid in the blood, and Mr. Cole decided to make one more effort to obtain relief. To his great astonishment and joy, he found after one month's treatment he had no further use for the crutches, and after three months he was entirely relieved and was enjoying perfect health.

If you are suffering from any chronic or obscure disease, you should call to see the doctor, for there will be no charge unless you want treatment.

SPECIAL REDUCED RATES
Given for Cases Starting Treatment This Month.

Doctor's next visit to 163 Clinton
Ave., Kingston, on Wednesday,
Sept. 24, from 9 a. m. to 12 m.; 1 p. m. to 5 p. m.; 6:30 to 8 p. m.

Brother Bill Knows!

"SAY, the old shack has changed some since Dad put in that Thatcher Round Boiler. I used to be glad to get out of the house and go somewhere to keep warm. But last winter I could sit down with a book in any room and feel just as comfortable as in the Public Library. Take it from me, when I start housekeeping there's going to be a Thatcher Boiler in the cellar."

Conservatively rated—saves coal.

Thatcher Round Boilers—steam or hot water—have higher ratings which facilitate removal of ashes and prevent burning out of grates. Write for new

Clean Out Flues During Fall

Danger of Starting Fires Unless Flues and Chimneys Are Free
From Soot Pointed Out by State Health Department.

Basing his remarks on the recent tragedy due to carbon monoxide poisoning in a New York city apartment house, Dr. Matthias Nicoll, Jr., state commissioner of health in his latest health talk broadcast from WGY warned householders in the state to clean out their flues and chimneys.

"Don't start heater or range fires
this fall," said Dr. Nicoll, "until you are sure that your flues and chimneys are free from soot or other obstructions. This advice may appear superfluous to those of you who are fortunate enough to have good drafts in your chimneys, but flues have a disagreeable way of filling up or otherwise causing trouble in the dead of winter. It thus behooves you to attend to the matter
now before cold weather sets in."

"It may seem to you that the subject of clean flues is hardly related to personal or public health, but we would remind you that severe and often fatal gas poisoning sometimes results from failure to heed this advice. Within the past week two persons in New York city, one of them
a physician formerly connected with this department, lost their lives
probably through breathing coal gas said to have leaked from the flue of a coke-fired heater located in the cellar of an apartment house."

"Ordinary coal stoves, ranges and heaters will throw off a dangerous amount of carbon monoxide, a highly poisonous gas, unless the products of combustion are able to pass readily to the outer air through tight and properly constructed flues.
Lack of sufficient draft, obstructions, such as loose bricks or soot,
or too tightly closed drafts may cause the poison to force its way into living rooms. In small amounts it causes severe headaches, nausea and dizziness. In larger amount, unconsciousness, from which the patient
does not recover unless treated promptly."

"Artificial or illuminating gas
also contains large amounts of carbon monoxide. Notify your local company at once if there is the characteristic odor of this gas apparent in any of your rooms. Flexible tubing rapidly becomes porous.
It is far safer to have all connections made with metal pipe. Do not use gas jets as clothes hangers. If this habit is persisted in sooner or later
a gas cock will be accidentally turned on. Gas jets should not be left lighted in sleeping rooms. A slight drop in pressure may cause the flame to go out, a subsequent increase in pressure will fill the room with un-burnt gas. Gas water heaters throw off a large amount of carbon monoxide gas, due to the heated gas
suddenly coming in contact with cold water pipes. All such heaters therefore should be connected by tube with the outside air."

"There have been so many deaths
in closed garages due to this same poison which is given off in the exhaust from automobiles that it would appear to be unnecessary
again to warn people against running their automobile engines inside
the garage unless doors or windows are open."

"Plenty of ventilation in your living and sleeping rooms is a safety measure against danger from gas leaks. It is also better for your general health under all conditions."

TODAY WE CELEBRATE

ANNIVERSARIES

Of St. Linus, Pope and martyr, first century. St. Thecla, Virgin and martyr, first century. St. Adaman, Abbot, 705. Born on this date—Oc-tavius Caesar Augustus, first Roman emperor, in the year 63, B. C. at Aricia. Karl Theodor Korner, celebrated German poet, 1791, Dresden.
On this date in 1779, the redoubtable American Admiral John Paul Jones in command of a squadron of three American war vessels, inflicted a great humiliation on English pride
by his crushing defeat of the squadron commanded by Capt. Pearson, R.
N. of Flamborough Head, England.
It was in this engagement that John Paul Jones made the famous answer
when asked, as to his flagship, "The Bonhomme Richard" was sinking under his feet, if he surrendered, he answered, "We have not yet begun to fight" and proved his words by capturing the British flagship "Ser-apis" on whose deck he received the sword of Capt. Pearson. This defeat rankles so much in British memory that it is hard to find in any history published in England a fair or accurate account of the battle. In fact, the term "adventurer" is the mildest term applied to the wonderful little man, who always seemed able to wrest victory from
the hardest combination of circumstances with the odds always against him.

"SUB ROSA"

The expression "Sub Rosa" took its origin from the wars between the houses of York and Lancaster ("The Wars of the Roses") whose partisans respectively wore—and swore—by the red and white rose. These emblems were the signs of two taverns
near Parliament Buildings, Westminster. Here the retainers of noblemen attached to the Duke of York, and to Henry VI, used to meet.
Every transaction was said to be done "under the rose" meaning the utmost secrecy.

DUCHESS DE LA VALLIERE.

Louise Francoise, Duchess de la Valliere, was a French lady of ancient family, and wife of the Duke of Orleans. She became mistress of Louis XIV, King of France, by whom she had a son and a daughter. In a fit of mingled repentance and jealousy she one day left the court and retired to the convent of St.
Cloud. The king when told of this hastened to her and persuaded her to return. From that time La Val-liere, shunning the public gaze, lived in retirement. In 1666 Louis fell in love with Madame de Montespan, and La Valliere again fled to the convent. Louis again induced her to return, but she knew she had lost
the king's affections, and resolved to carry out her purpose. She took her vows in the presence of the whole court under the name of Sister Louise of the Order of Mercy. In June, 1675. She died in 1710 at the age of sixty-six.

Star Backstops of New York Yanks

Much credit is due to Catchers Fred Hoffman and Wally Schang (left to right) for the remarkably good showing of the champion New York Yankees. They are always in the game fighting for every point.

Kremer Making Good

"Woe" Kremer, pitcher of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who has proven his worth for big league playing. Thought to be an old man on the West coast,
and said to lack control, his purchase
by the Pirates was a surprise, until he began to show the others how to pitch real games. The present high standing of the club is partly due to him.

DIAMOND
PICK-UPS

Cleveland has 633 amateur baseball teams enrolled in playground leagues.

Fred Schanz has resigned as business manager of the Baltimore International league club.

The National league has decided to permit the payment of bonuses to players for good behavior.

Southpaw Ray Moore, late of Minneapolis and Atlanta, has been added to the Beaumont pitching staff.

The Dodgers have an option on Bobby Murray, crack young infielder
of the Nashville Southern league team.

Pitcher Cheever of the Cleveland club of the American league has been obtained by the local American association club.

Philadelphia Americans have not won an American league pennant
since Connie Mack broke up his great team in 1914.

Fred Gunther, Lincoln Western league infielder, has been turned back to the Los Angeles Pacific Coast league team.

Remorse is what you feel when you realize that you could have killed that last pitch instead of letting it go by for a third strike.

Pitcher Brett, a big right-hander,
has been released by the Cubs to the Wichita Falls club of the Texas league under option.

Sumpter Clarke, an outfielder released by the Cleveland American league team to Chattanooga early in the season, has been recalled.

Max Flack, outfielder of the local National league team, who was obtained from Chicago in May, 1922, has been released to the Oakland club of the Pacific Coast league.

The Brooklyn club has added another pitcher to its weakened staff.
from Des Moines of the Western league, is the latest addition.

The Boston Red Sox announce the purchase of two new pitchers, one of them J. W. Keifer from Bay City and the other C. D. Jameson from a summer school at Castle Heights, Ark.

The Cleveland American league team has closed a deal with the Saginaw (Mich.) club for the purchase of Third Baseman Yoter, a right-handed batter who has hit .350 in the Michigan-Ontario league and stolen 27 bases this year.

Eckert's Horses Won Purses.
Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Eckert have returned home from attending the Fulton County Fair and races at Groversville, N. Y. Their horses, Helen J. and Lynn Kohl won fourth money on the opening day and Lynn Kohl won first money in the 2:30 trot the last day. The purses were for $500.

Red Smith Resented Warbling of Byron

"I wonder," mused Jimmy Caveney of Reds the other day,
"how Red Smith and Umpire Byron are getting along in the Coast league. Wonder if they have made up and become friends? They sure had a rich battle on the coast a few years ago, and all because Byron persisted in slinging. He called some bad strikes on Red one afternoon, and when Red turned to protest, Byron began to warble, whereupon Red crowned him.

"Next afternoon, Byron came out, advanced to the front of the grandstand, doffed his cap,
and spoke to the audience.

"Ladies and gentlemen," said
he, "I wish to express my regret for what happened yesterday, and to give you my assurance that it will not occur again."

"And Red Smith, arising before the bench, explained:
"Ladies and gentlemen, if Mr.
Byron starts to sing any more,
it's going to all happen over again. I don't like his voice."

Daubert as Trapshooter

While Jake Daubert, the popular Cincinnati Red who was temporarily put out of the diamond game a short time back by an injury received during a game, is known far and wide
as a ball player, not so many fans
are aware that he is also an expert trapshooter. Daubert is a well-known
traps when the Reds are playing a home series and is a frequent visitor
at the gun clubs.

Mays Beat Athletics

In the nine seasons that Carl Mays pitched in the American league, he faced the Athletics 38 times in the games that counted in the won and lost columns for him. He came through a victor in 35—a percentage in games won of .921. There is no record in baseball along this line that equals this work.

Oddity in Baseball Game

During the game of Sunday, May 4, between Sacramento and Portland, the Portland team scored two runs in one inning without having a man charged with being at bat. The runs were scored on a walk, a sacrifice, hit batman, two walks and a sacrifice fly.

Crippled Giants Face Hardest Fight
Today With Pirates—Senators
Maintain Two Game Lead Over Yankees.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 23.—With Frank Frisch, star second baseman and captain, and Heinie Groh, star at the third sack, on the bench for repairs,
the New York Giants today faced the hardest fight imaginable in their effort to win a fourth consecutive National League pennant.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, up and coming with gathering speed, and a well known jinx of the season to the Giants cause, furnishes the opposition.
If they win two of the games in the series starting at the Polo Grounds,
it is virtually conceded the pennant race is over so far as the Giants are concerned.

John J. McGraw, greying manager of the Giants, shrewd in strategy,
gained a little time for breathing yesterday when he exercised the right of the home club and announced postponement of the first game with the Pirates because of wet grounds.

The same amount of moisture descended on the Brooklyn playing field, but the Dodgers, now in second place, one point to the rear of the Giants, went out and defeated the Cubs, 2 to 1.

The Pirates were a little peevish
over the fact that a little rain gave McGraw the excuse for postponing the game. Both Giants and Pirates had open dates for Thursday. On that date the Pirates had hoped to engage what they considered a cinch
—the Chicago Cubs—in a postponed game. That contest now must be played as part of a double-header.

The Pirates have slightly the best of the schedule, in as much as they are carded for eight more contests,
three of which are with the Giants,
and five with the Cubs. The Giants have six remaining games. The Dodgers finish in four more starts.

If the Giants break even in their remaining games, the Dodgers win
three and the Pirates lose only two,
Brooklyn would be pennant winner
with the Giants in second place and the Pirates in third.

If the Giants win four out of six
it would be necessary for the Pirates
to win seven of their eight, provided Brooklyn won only two, in order to top the list.

By taking five of their six games
the Giants can win the pennant, providing the Pirates lose one.

The American League race is a tight affair as a tight race is not at the hot point of the National. The Washington Senators won yesterday,
maintaining their lead of two games over the Yankees, who also won. The Senators can now win out if they break even in their six remaining games and the Yankees lose two instead of one.

TAGGING THE BASES IN THE MAJOR LEAGUES.
The Brooklyn Dodgers, not minding the rain which caused a postponement in Manhattan, took the Chicago Cubs in a 12 inning struggle, winning 2 to 1 when Zack Wheat smashed a double.

Slamming Stanley Coveleskie for five runs in the ninth inning the New York Yanks made a last minute run away of their game with the Cleveland Indians, winning 10 to 4.

Mike Cvetogors had nothing the Washington Senators didn't fancy.
The American League leaders peppered him persistently and beat the White Sox 8 to 3.

Herman Pilette, who has pitched little this year, went to the mound
for the Detroit Tigers and turned in a 9 to 1 victory over the Red Sox.

Rookies provided a considerable part of the American League matinee in St. Louis, where the Philadelphia Athletics drove Grant from the game in the seventh and beat the Browns, 9 to 7.

Epinal Still a Favorite.
By Telegraph to The Freeman.
New York, Sept. 23.—Despite the victory of Aug. Belmont's Ladkin Saturday and Epinal's defeat by Wise Counsellor on Labor Day, the French thoroughbred ruled a strong favorite today to win the second in the race at Aqueduct Saturday.
Ladkin is fit for the test. So are Wise Counsellor, My Play, Wilderness and Zev.

Eliminate Stars In Amateur Golf

By Telegraph to The Freeman.
Merton Cricket Club, Ardmore, Pa., Sept. 23.—Francis Outimet, former American open and amateur champion, shot a 75 in the first half of the qualifying round on Saturday. Willie Hunter, former British amateur champion, now residing in Los Angeles, followed with a 72.

Outimet was pleased to take a 74 yesterday. Hunter's rejoinder was another 74. Today they met in the first round of the National Amateur Golf Championship and a pleasant time was had by all. It was a case of fighter versus fighter and stylist versus match play star, Hunter being the latter.

The Outimet-Hunter meeting was the feature match of a round more or less replete with features. These included, among others, meetings
between Bobby Jones, American open champion, and W. J. Thompson, the Canadian; Bob Gardner, Chicago, and W. L. Hope, the second of three Englishmen to survive the qualifying round; Max Marston, record breaking medalist and "Ham" Gardner, an all-Chicago affair and J.
Wood Platt, local nemesis of champions, and Tony Torrence, headliner
of the much delayed British forces.

Perfect weather prevailed when Jones and Thompson appeared at the first tee for the opening match of the round. The gallery, at this small and premature hour, was non-existent, popular interest centering
in the Platt-Torrence and Outimet-Hunter matches. It was an old story for Outimet, this clash with foreign bred competition. Francis came into overnight renown back in 1913 by beating Ted Ray and Harry Vardon out of the American open title and he has been a source of constant irritation to British golf ever since.

Hunter came on to St. Louis in 1921 as British amateur champion, and after beating Bobby Jones, went all the way to the semi-finals before Bob Gardner halted him. Hunter's match play temperament has made him one of the most dangerous elements known to competition.
